Planes Blast a Train.
Gandhi Would Fight.
Taming a Bald Eagle.
Strange Science, Queer Bug.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

JAPAN MARCHES on cheerfully in Manchuria, while the League of Nations mumbles, and the United States protests.

Our old-fashioned generals, admirals and any cabinet ministers, still convinced that war on the ground is important, should watch Manchuria.

They might note particularly the brief statement:

"Japanese airplanes blast out a Chinese armored train."

Troops will continue marching for some time, just as bows and arrows continued shooting after powder and bullets came in. But the main work will be done from the air, so much more convenient, safe and comfortable for those in the planes.

He tells them:

"I shall not hesitate to call upon you to bear any amount of suffering."

He adds that if necessary a million lives should be sacrificed.

GANDHI'S HOMECOMING was strange, as he walked down the gangplank carrying loin cloths, pots and pans, not uttering a sound because it was his "day of silence." Women put garlands of flowers around his neck. One thousand of the miserable "untouchables," carrying black flags, organized an anti-Gandhi demonstration.

There are more than 60,000,000 Mohammedans in India who, warlike and able to offset nearly 300,000,000 Hindus, denounce Gandhi's plans. There is shooting and killing here and there.

A gigantic country that has gone for thousands of years without the appearance of the word "liberty" in its literature cannot suddenly be transformed, even by Gandhi.

CYRUS H. K. CURTIS brings from London news that a Capt. C. W. R. Knight has tamed an American bald eagle from Alaska, given to him by Dr. Mann, director of the zoo in Washington, D. C. Taming that eagle, says the Curtis editor, was considered "well nigh impossible."

He is mistaken. The thing was done by Lord Balfour, during the war. He not only tamed the American eagle, but pulled out many billion dollars' worth of the bird's tail feathers and persuaded the foolish bird to junk his finest battleships, some not yet completed.

When it comes to bald eagle taming, there is no superior to the late Lord Balfour.

ON THE EDGE of the Baltic Sea, scientists find a tiny skeleton five inches long, dating back more than 500,000,000 years.

And, according to science, that little skeleton is your relative. It is called an ostracoderm, half fish, half insect, that 1,000,000,000 years ago represented the highest development of life on the planet.

You get your backbone from that creature, as you get your five fingers from the five-toed salamander of the later carboniferous era. If that salamander had had one more toe, we should have the duodecimal instead of the decimal system, much better for mathematics. And that extra finger would improve performances on the piano and the guitar.

But you need not believe what science says, unless you like.

THIS, HOWEVER, almost as interesting, you MUST believe, for the microscope proves it.

Some disease germs, so small you can't see them, are attacked by tiny fleas, parasites that sometimes stupefy the disease germs so that they cannot hurt us, sometimes drive them to madness and make them more dangerous.

Dr. D'Herelle, of Yale University, tells you about this strangely microscopic creature called a "phage" which comes from the Greek verb "phagein," to eat. Can you imagine a thing so small that it can live on a germ?

And can you imagine what trouble Noah must have had to make sure that he had a pair, male and female, of each of these things in the ark?

A GROUP of Americans led by Roy Hudson, after investigation in Russia, reports:

"Everybody in Russia has enough to eat. Workers are contented and happy."

That may or may not be accurate. But an amazing, unquestioned fact is that in Russia everybody has a job. Mr Hudson tells of one Soviet plant that employs 32,000 men, needs 12,000 more and cannot get them, in spite of a wage increase of nine per cent.

SAILORS ON the Caspian Sea have had their wages raised, once 10 per cent and once 14 per cent.

Wages of Russian miners have been raised 30 per cent, and employment offices in Baku, according to Thomas Burns, of San Francisco, are closed because nobody applies for a job.

Of 400,000 workers in Stalingrad, previously "on the lowest level of culture in the world," only 30,000 are now illiterate.

How is it possible that Russia can keep everybody working, while here, "in God's country," millions are idle and nobody seems to know what to do about it.

OPPOSITION TO religion continues in Mexico. The president is expected to publish today a law that will fix a limit of one church and one priest for 80,000 inhabitants.

The annual celebration at the shrine of the Virgin of Guadalupe was so great a success this year, with half a million attending, that Senator Algamirano, anti-clerical from Vera Cruz, demands the expulsion of Pascual Diaz, archbishop of Mexico, and of all other priests.

CHAIR LOOMS FOR 2 GIRLS IN KILLING

Search for 'Thrill' Linked Pair, One Reared in Luxury, Other From Modest Home

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Two girls, still in their teens, came within the shadow of the electric chair today because they wanted a "thrill" and "needed some dough."

The girls—Marcella Royce, 17, and Dorothy Evans, 16—sat in a county jail cell relating their story of how they flung themselves into careers of crime which reached a swift climax when Detective James J. Caplis was shot and killed during a cafe holdup.

The two girls, united by a common longing for a thrill, presented a strange contrast otherwise.

Marcella's parents are well-to-do; she lived in a luxurious apartment and has a young sister. Her parents had spanked her for being out late the night of the slaying.

CHILDREN UNHAPPY

Dorothy lived in a modest home with six brothers and sisters. Her father's comment was:

"You can't keep seven kids happy on $27 a week."

Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne prepared to go before the county grand jury today and ask for indictments charging murder against the two girls and their four jailed companions, Frank Freeman, Jack Burlison, Nicholas Bruno and Tony Pape.

Ditchburne announced he will bring the two girls and four youths to trial as speedily as possible and will demand the extreme penalty.

William Schoemaker, chief of detectives, declared he had statements from all six prisoners, admitting participation in the holdup of the Beach View Garden

SMALL CITY SALARIES SLASHED

Employes Given Option of Month Off Without Pay In Final Budget Action

City employes making less than $3,000 a year today were given the option of taking an 8½ per cent salary cut or taking one month's vacation without pay as Council, sitting as a budget committee, closed the 1932 budget. The final draft will go to Council either tomorrow or Thursday, it was said.

In addition to cutting the little fellows, the budget committee slashed the salary of Dr. J. S. Hammers, superintendent of Mayview, from $7,000 to $6,300, and took 10 per cent from $4,000 salaries of W. C. Batchelor, superintendent of recreation, and Donald McNeil, assistant traffic engineer. A 10 per cent cut on salaries above $3,000 was made by Council yesterday.

HEALTH FUNDS RESTORED

Recommendation was made that the appropriation of $7,855 for the Mental Health Clinic and $8,514 for the Bureau of the Handicapped, ordered cut out, be restored. The Helping Hand medical aid fund was cut from $40,000 to $36,000, and the Lake Erie-Ohio River Canal Commission fund from $10,000 to $7,500. The Firemen's Pension Fund got an increase of $102,000 and the Bureau of Traffic Planning was cut from $263,000 to $200,000.

More than 100 firemen and 162 policemen will be retired on pensions after January 1, while thousands of other city employes will take salary cuts as a result of Council's action to meet the 2½-mill tax cut made last week. All retrenchment programs will go into effect Friday.

CUTS AGREED ON

Among the dismissals are these: Fred E. Obley, chief clerk of the Health Department; Boyd Birch, Twenty-eighth Ward chairman.

QUIZ DE ROSA AS SURPRISE WITNESS

More Subpenas Issued as Probers Go Deeper Into Affairs of City Treasury

One or more indictments will be returned by the grand jury investigating conduct of the City Treasurer's office by Roy D. Schooley, deposed Treasurer, District Attorney Andrew T. Park indicated today.

The prosecutor said a presentment would be forthcoming, but would give no inkling as to who would be named.

The jury's inquisition begun yesterday, and continued today will carry over at least tomorrow, Park said. Half a dozen additional subpenas were issued at the close of this morning's session, indicating the uncovering of new leads.

QUIZZED ON GRENET

Asked as to whether Assemblyman Samuel J. Grenet and Dr. F. H. Frederick, listed to testify but unavailable as witnesses, would be summoned, Park replied:

"I don't know."

Herman Friedman, second mortgage broker and reputed financial backer of Schooley, and Michael DeRosa, Jr., Twelfth Ward Republican leader, recently elected alderman, were the principal witnesses at today's sessions.

Friedman is credited with knowing the inside story of Schooley's operations as hockey promoter and political aide of Mayor Kline.

SURPRISE WITNESS

And he posed so the photographer could get a better likeness.

Speculation greeted the appearance of DeRosa, a surprise witness. He was questioned for 15 minutes, dismissed and recalled at the afternoon quiz. In the meantime he was sworn in as alderman by Col. James L. Cos-

GRID COACHES WARNED

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Football coaches attending the annual meeting of the American Football Coaches' Association were warned today by Johnny Heisman, former coach of Georgia Tech, that they had better devote serious thought to prevention of injuries for the sake of the popularity of the game. He said:

"If we get another year or two like this last year, an aroused public opinion is apt to condemn football as too dangerous a sport."

The coaches, here from all parts of the country, discussed causes of injuries to players and the best means of avoiding them in the future. They heard James Marks, Kiski (Pa.) coach, read a letter from "Pop" Warner in which the veteran coach said one way to curb injuries to players would be the adoption of a rule penalizing the use of hands on heads. This, he said, would tend to eliminate dangerous "stiff arming." It would also prevent linemen "from twisting the heads of players on opposing teams."

High School Student Dies of Grid Injury

LA SALLE, Ill., Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Eugene Cook, 14, La Salle High School football player, died today from blood poisoning which developed from a wound he received while scrimmaging several weeks ago.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—President Hoover today announced appointment of Norman Davis, former undersecretary of state as a member of America's delegation to the Geneva arms conference.

Hoover Foes To Bolt G. O. P.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Republican Independents are seriously considering a third party movement in 1932 in the event the Republican and Democratic conventions fail to nominate a man to their liking.

The group comprises the Senate Independents. It is opposed to renomination of President Hoover.

The veteran Senator Norris, of Nebraska, has been asked to make a contest against Hoover's renomination, but he has declined to enter the nomination race. If a third party is organized, he is looked upon, together with Senator Borah, of Idaho, as a likely head of the ticket.

MUSMANNO JOB PLAN IN SENATE

HARRISBURG, Dec. 29.—The Senate today had for action the resolution of Representative Musmanno, Allegheny County, memorializing Congress to approve a $5,000,000,000 bond issue for public work to meet the unemployment emergency.

The House passed the measure last night with 109 affirmative votes, the negatives not being recorded when a standing vote showed a majority in favor of the resolution. The Allegheny County delegation voted solidly for adoption of the resolution, and there was a scattered approval from Philadelphia.

DEFEAT PREDICTED

Senators close to the Republican state organization today predicted the resolution would not emerge from committee in the upper branch. The organization apparently does not desire either the Republican majority in the Senate at Washington or President Hoover to be "embarrassed" by having the premier Republican state ask

Rich Grandparents Drag Children From Mother

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Declaring that the welfare of a child is superior to the claim of its parent, Supreme Court Justice Graham Witschief today awarded Edward C. Anness, oldest member of the New York Stock Exchange, and his wife the custody of their two grandchildren.

The children, 7-year-old Peyton Randolph Anness and 5-year-old Edward John Anness, refused to leave their mother, Mrs. Helen Patrick, of New Rochelle, formerly the wife of the late Peyton Anness, son of the petitioners.

The children, sobbing, were finally dragged from the courtroom by their grandparents with the aid of a deputy sheriff. The mother wept as they were taken away.

The defendant in the action was married to Harold Patrick, then a lifeguard at Rye, N. Y., in 1930.

Justice Witschief ruled that advantages which the grandparents could provide were superior to those offered by the mother. He said the children undoubtedly would have greater freedom with their mother than in the home of their grandparents, but "too great freedom is not conducive to the erection of strong character."

Harold Patrick was convicted in 1921 of using drugs and had later been convicted of intoxication.

Japanese War Planes Soar Over Chinchow

Frightened Chinese Expect Attack on Stronghold

CHINCHOW, Manchuria, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Japanese airplanes flew back and forth over this city tonight and, although they dropped no bombs, the frightened people expected an attack any moment.

Chinchow, last stronghold of the Chinese in Manchuria, is held by Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang with an army which the Japanese have estimated at 84,000 men. No formal ultimatum has been served on Chang, but in other quarters Japan has demanded that he get out, taking his army south of the Great Wall, which is not far from the city.

Old Auto Plates To Cause Arrest

Motorists driving with 1931 license plates will be subject to arrest New Year's Day unless the State Department of Motor Vehicles grants an extension, Inspector of Traffic Jacob Dorsey announced today. Blame Power Plant For Vatican Crash

HUNT FOR FLIER LED BY EAKER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Five Army planes, led by Capt. Ira Eaker, famous pilot, left Bolling Field today to search for Lieut. E. H. Bobbitt, missing Army flier, following a report he had crashed between Keyser, W. Va., and Redhouse, Md.

The report reached Bolling Field through a motorist who claimed to have seen the wreckage of an airplane in the vicinity.

ELKINS, W. Va., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Experienced woodsmen set out today for the Spruce Knob area on Cheat Mountain to search for Lieut. E. H. Bobbitt, Jr., missing Army flier. Hope that Bobbitt would be found alive waned as the search entered the fourth day.

Spruce Knob has not been explored. State police said the flier was traced to that vicinity, and that he was not seen beyond.

Meanwhile, aviators here and at Weston were awaiting better weather for renewal of an aerial search.

Judge Delays Doom Of Boy Murderer

FREEPORT, Ill., Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Russell McWilliams, 17-year-old murderer under sentence of death, gained a new lease on life today when Supreme Court Justice Oscar E. Heard issued a writ of supersedeas staying his execution until the Supreme Court can pass upon his case.

McWilliams was scheduled to die January 11. Since the Supreme Court will not meet again until February 2, McWilliams cannot be executed until after that date.

Ashurst Bolts Dry Hearings in Senate

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Describing attempts to change the prohibition laws as "a ridiculous waste of effort," Senator Ashurst (Dem.), of Arizona, today withdrew from a Senate judiciary sub-committee named to hold hearings on the subject.

Another friend of prohibition, Senator Black (Dem.), of Alabama, was appointed to fill Senator Ashurst's place by Chairman Norris, of the Judiciary Committee.

Smith May Hurl His Hat In Ring at Jackson Fete

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith will start work tonight on the Jackson Day dinner speech he will deliver in Washington on the eve of the meeting of the Democratic National Committee on January 9. In this address he is expected to define what, in his opinion, should be the party's policies in 1932.

Whether Smith's speech will pave the way for his re-entrance into the national political arena as a presidential candidate was a matter of no little conjecture in political circles here today. In fact this possibility is causing concern among persons interested in the move to nominate Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt as the Democratic presidential candidate.

One published story today held that Smith will definitely throw his hat into the ring as a presidential candidate with a proposal that Congress sanction creation of a $2,000,000,000 "prosperity bond" issue.

Although personal relations between Smith and Roosevelt are friendly, there is no doubt in the minds of Roosevelt supporters that there is political rivalry between them.

ASSEMBLYMEN REBUFF G. O. P. LEADERS ON ADJOURNMENT

SESSION'S END TO BE REACHED TOMORROW

Senator Harris, Allegheny Members Score Failure To Provide Real Relief

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 29.—The Republican state organization, which has maintained a tight rein on the deliberations of the special legislative session on unemployment relief, was given a setback last night when the House refused to concur in a Senate resolution to adjourn sine die. Then the House obtained approval of its demand that the session be continued until tomorrow.

The Senate had voted to hurry adjournment following a meeting here yesterday of an emergency conference of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, at which demand was made for real relief and a joint session of House and Senate to hear the attitude of labor. Specifically, revival of the gasoline and cigaret taxes was urged, as well as passage of the prosperity poor relief and the legality of the Turner bill appropriating $10,000,000 for relief was challenged.

CENSURE FEARED

It is improbable that any of these demands will be acceded to in House or Senate, but the Republican organization fears any prolongation of the session provides greater opportunities for dissatisfaction with its accomplishments and ordered the Senate to overrule the House resolution and adjourn today.

Senator Frank T. Harris of Allegheny County objected to adjournment at any date until something more has been accomplished, he said.

"More than 900,000 persons are unemployed in the state, and more than 100,000 children are being fed by charitable agencies. The income tax reports of 1929 show we had 3,682 millionaires in this state, and 36 annual incomes of over a million dollars. Then we assemble here day after day and debate whether or not we shall give all our distressed people $11 each."

Harris was supported by the Allegheny County Senators in his objection to adjournment, but only about a dozen out of the 50 opposed the motion to adjourn Tuesday.

DELAY FORCED

In the House Representative Dunn of Allegheny County, opposed adjournment without more to the credit of the Legislature on behalf of the needy. Representative Moore of Washington County, asserted adjournment Tuesday would prevent passage of a bill to exempt small home owners from forced tax sales. Led by Moore and Representative Richards, of Lawrence County, the House refused to adjourn today, but agreed to quit Wednesday.

Both branches this morning ran quickly through perfunctory sessions, the House recessing until this afternoon.

Principal business of the House last night was killing a resolution by Representative Spangler of York County, to reduce the pay of state employes. The proposal of the former speaker was met with jeers. Despite this action, the House agreed with the Senate to extend the scope of a commission appointed in 1929 to an inquiry into the cost of state government, authorizing it to call on state officials for any information desired.

Pinchot Opposes Cut In State Expenses

HARRISBURG, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot last night informed the House that the expenses of the state government cannot now be curtailed because of extra demands on the various state departments. He said:

"During a period such as that through which we are now passing the work of the department, contrary to that of business concerns, has greatly increased. The departments are now carrying heavier burdens and their functions have expanded since the appropriations were made at the last legislative session."

Gov. Murray Seeks Delegation Control

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—A skirmish between Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray and his opponents for control of the Oklahoma delegation to the National Democratic convention opened at a meeting of the State Executive Committee today.

His political foes are embattled against what they describe as his attempt to perpetuate pledging of the state delegation to himself for the presidential nomination.

the federal government to make such an appropriation for relief.

CITES DISTRESS

"Congress should recognize that a state of war exists and float a war loan, a prosperity loan. And with the money fight depression, fight unemployment, fight poverty, fight misery, fight starvation.

"I say we are in a state of war—the enemy has actually landed. He has captured many factories, which are America's greatest boon to prosperity. He has closed many mines which yield America's greatest treasures. He is on the way to capturing railroads, to paralyzing commerce. He is stalking across the land intent on driving the American people from their homes.

"And how is that enemy being fought? We are told by the President I do not like to criticize the President because I know his burdens are many and he is not personally responsible for this depression, but there are certain things we, as Republicans and Americans, have a right to suggest to him that we should have confidence. Well, we do have confidence, but that is not bringing back prosperity."

Rockefeller on Jury Giving Man $17,500

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(Universal).—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., as a member of a sheriff's blue ribbon jury, yesterday helped return a verdict of $17,500 against the Automatic Supply Company and the International Automatic Supply Company.

The award was made to Ernest M. Howe, assignee of a number of razor-blade vending machines, who said the defendant companies broke their contracts to take over 20,000 machines from the Casau Automatic Vendors, Inc.

MALONE'S SON QUITS JOB

James F. Malone, Jr., today resigned as an assistant solicitor in the personal property division of the County Board of Assessment and Revision of Taxes, effective Thursday.

Named to the post four years ago at the instance of the late Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, Malone was slated to retirement with the incoming coalition of C. C. McGovern and C. M. Barr as County Commissioners.

James F. Malone, Sr., former councilman and head of the state department of property and supplies, was a foe of McGovern at the last election.

APPOINTMENTS HERE PERILED

HARRISBURG, Dec. 29.—The Pittsburgh Registration Commission today faced the threat of extinction through failure of the Senate to act on appointments by Gov. Pinchot.

Other appointments perilled include Dr. Charles E. Reitel, Pittsburgh, director of the Greater Pennsylvania Council; Albert H. Stackpole, vice chairman, and Richard W. Robbins, Sewickley, members of the State Aeronautics Commission; Public Service Commissioners George W. Woodruff and Frederick J. Gruenberg, and Mrs. Alice Liveright, secretary of welfare.

Services of officials not confirmed will cease when the Legislature adjourns, but the Governor has the right to reappoint any of the officials except the two Public Service Commissioners.

The Senate today confirmed the appointment of former Congressman James M. Magee as a member of the Pennsylvania Securities Commission; Irvin D. Metzger to the State Board of Medical Licensure and George B. Moreland to the Osteopathic Surgeons' Examining Board. All are from Pittsburgh.

HOOVER RELIEF AIDE FAVORS U. S. HELP

Many States Unable to Meet Needs, Swift Testifies Before Senate Committee

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Support for the movement to appropriate from the Federal Treasury for unemployment relief came today from a welfare leader who has been co-operating with President Hoover to meet the problem through voluntary effort.

Linton B. Swift, executive secretary of the Family Welfare Association of America, testified to a Senate committee that federal aid was needed by some states that could not otherwise meet their relief needs.

NEEDS INCREASE

There was a 215 per cent increase in relief extended by member agencies of the Family Welfare group from 1916 to 1925, he said, and this increase continued up to 1929.

Three times as many families were accepted in 1931, he added, as in 1929, and many other applications were pouring in, but were rejected because of lack of funds.

Other associates of the President in welfare work called before the committee were Allan T. Burns, executive director of the Association of Community Chests, and Frank Bane, executive secretary of the American Association of Public Welfare officials.

Half a dozen welfare workers from New York, Chicago and Philadelphia, testified yesterday that available relief funds are inadequate and urged federal appropriations.

Their testimony included an estimate that from $600,000,000 to $700,000,000 will be needed in the next year.

J. Prentiss Murphy, director of the Children's Welfare Bureau of Philadelphia, testified that 970,000 were unemployed in Pennsylvania and asserted people in some states would get no relief unless it comes from the federal government.

COAL FIELD DISTRESS

Distress in the coal fields of West Virginia, Kentucky and Western Pennsylvania is causing mental retardation of miners' children, Clarence E. Pickett, of Philadelphia, secretary of the American Trans-Service Quaker Committee, testified.

His committee extends relief principally by providing free meals to children of destitute miners, Pickett said:

"We feed approximately 20,000 children a day. About the same number of adults will soon have to be fed in the districts where we are now extending relief to children. We have no money to do that."

Approximately 200,000 unemployed miners in the bituminous coal fields of West Virginia, Kentucky and Pennsylvania will never again be able to find permanent work in the mines of these districts, Pickett claimed, "due to the mechanization of the mines."

CARSON ST. FIRE PERILS GIRLS

Fire in the laboratory of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers and Extract Company, 2008-12 Carson street, early this afternoon chased a score of persons to the street.

Traffic was tied up for more than 30 minutes.

The fire caused a loss estimated at $1,000. Spontaneous combustion was believed to have been the cause.

Four girls, employed in the laboratory — Sophia Totski, 20; Julia Litner, 20; Sophia Kuchta, 21; Blanche Kaczorowski, 20, and a number of workmen — made their way to the street unassisted. their way to the street unassisted.

Robbers Complain At Small Sum Found in Safe

Dissatisfied with their loot after forcing open the safe in the Hi-Grade Products Company, 560 Cherry way, Braddock, robbers early today left a typewritten note ordering officials to "keep more money in the safe," according to a report to Braddock police.

Gaining entrance through a rear window, the robbers knocked the combination from the safe and shattered locks on small strong boxes inside the safe. They obtained only $5.30, police said, and then went to a typewriter, where they pounded out their message.

CHICAGO GIRLS FACE CHAIR

Cafe, where Detective Caplis was killed when he attempted to seize the bandits.

According to the story told by the Evans girl, who at the age of 16 has been married and divorced, she was the first of the two girls to enter the holdup plot and she induced Marcella to join up. Revealing that she joined the youthful robbers because of the prospect of getting some excitement, Dorothy said:

"I saw Marcella and I said: 'Say, Red, 'reeman's got a stickup lined up. Want to go along?' She answered: 'K. O., Kid. I need some dough.'"

GIRL RULES GANG

In her statement, Marcella Royce revealed how she had prevented the men in the holdup gang from exercising leniency toward a taxicab driver captured at the cafe entrance just a few minutes before the robbery. She said:

"Some of the boys wanted to let him go, but I put a stop to that. I said: 'Are you a bunch of amateurs? Do you want him to call police?' They listened to me."

In their statements the girls indicated that they carried guns, as well as the male members of the gang. Marcella named Tony Piaza as the actual killer of the detective. Police visited Piaza's home, but found that he had disappeared, leaving a rifle behind. The rifle, according to detectives, was used in the holdup slaying.

DECIDE ON KILLER

After the shooting, according to Marcella's account, all members of the gang gathered in another restaurant to compare weapons and see who killed the officer. She said:

"We came to the conclusion Tony Piaza did it."

The girl said, continuing, that when Tony was asked, he replied:

"Yes, I did it. I killed him."

Ditchburne declared the fact that the girls did not actually wield the weapons which brought death to the detective does not absolve them of blame in the crime. The girls, however, it was indicated, may be tried in Juvenile Court and may thus escape the state's demand for the death penalty.

'AVERAGE MAN' SPARED IN NEW TAX PLAN

Democrats Draft Program To Hit Big Incomes for Increase in Revenues

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—A new Democratic tax law that will bear little resemblance to the one jointly advocated a few weeks ago by President Hoover and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon is in the making on Capitol Hill.

It will strike sharply at the incomes in the higher brackets and leave the "little fellows" about where he is now.

In addition, the plans of the Democratic leaders call for enactment of a stiff gift tax and repeal of the capital gains and losses provision of the present law, under which millions of dollars have been "written off" since the market crash of two years ago by large taxpayers.

MELLON'S PLAN

In his recommendation to Congress earlier this month, Secretary Mellon proposed to bring 1,760,000 persons back into the income tax paying class. This could be accomplished by reducing the exemptions so as to affect incomes of the $1,500 and $2,500 class, which Mellon advocated.

But the Democrats, who have been conferring busily among themselves over the new tax legislation, cannot see the Mellon program of going after these small incomes. While the details of the Democratic plan remain to be worked out in final form, it is now clear that they plan to produce a bill that will tax incomes up to $10,000 substantially as at present, and go after the higher brackets.

The Mellon-Hoover plan proposed a maximum surtax of 40 per cent on incomes in excess of $500,000. The Democratic proposal will likely call for, at least, 50 per cent surtax on such incomes, and perhaps 60 per cent.

DEMOCRATIC ESTIMATE

In support of their position that little can be gained by going after the smaller incomes, Democratic leaders pointed out that it would require 3,000,000 incomes in the lower brackets to produce $20,000,000 in revenue, whereas in the higher brackets that amount could be obtained from less than 100 incomes. The cost of administration and collection would, they contended, almost eat up the amount that could be obtained from the lower brackets.

The Democratic leaders are in fairly close agreement about the basic features of the new tax law. They are at variance, however, upon whether it should be made retroactive to hit 1931 incomes. Some of them feel it is absolutely necessary in view of the Treasury's deficits, present and prospective, but others contend that 1931 has been a hard year anyway for great numbers of taxpayers and that no additional burden should be put upon this year's incomes.

The new bill will be drawn some time next month, and presented to Congress probably by February 1.

PRISON KILLING STIRS CONVICTS

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Tenseness hung over bleak San Quentin prison today after guards shot and killed Hugh Adams, 24, burly Negro convict, who attempted to escape while being taken to the warden's office for violation of a "no smoking" rule in the dining hall.

An ominous air was current in the penitentiary as prisoners mumbled protests against action of tower guards in firing shots that wounded seven other prisoners and a guard. Hundreds of terrorized convicts sought shelter as Adams made a dash toward "condemned row" amid a flurry of bullets.

'Magic' Still Rules Many Lives, Scientists Hear

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Ancient "magical" beliefs brought up to date that still rule every-day lives of many educated Americans were described today before the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Women are slightly more inclined to believe in "magic" than men, said Prof. A. O. Bowden, of New Mexico State Teachers College, because they are less accustomed to meeting the hard facts of reality.

The belief that beautiful pictures, fine music and beautiful home surroundings somehow make people moral and virtuous is held by 86 out of every 100 average citizens, Prof. Bowden found.

In politics, the professor discovered, 92 people of every 100 believe the great majority of the American people are sure to vote on the right side of any public question because of their innate ability to tell right from wrong.

Belief that prayers have some influence in bringing rain, other changes in the weather or restoration of health to ill persons was held by 16 of every 100 people, he found.

Greta Garbo 'No Iceberg' To 'Rescuer' From Camera

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(Universal.)—Greta Garbo, alias Gussie Berger for mystery's sake, played a game of hide-and-seek with the public spotlight today, but there was one man outside of the movies who could proudly boast that he not only put his arm around her but got a friendly pat on the back instead of a slap in the face.

And to that man, La Garbo, the mysterious, "is not an iceberg as some people seem to think, but a warm-hearted woman, a bundle of nerves."

He is Arthur Tait, 28-year-old bespectacled florist in the St. Moritz Hotel here, where Greta is registered as "Gussie Berger." Miss Garbo was in Tait's shop buying some flowers for two women whose names are being guarded. Suddenly a throng of newspapermen and cameramen recognized her and made a scramble to capture her for an interview and pictures.

It was Tait's big moment. And he seized it. With an arm around the slender shoulders of La Garbo, he whisked her down to the servants' entrance to the hotel and up an elevator to her suite on the twenty-fifth floor.

And then came the florist's reward—but let him tell about it in his words:

"Miss Garbo invited me in and told me to sit down. She was breathless, just a bundle of nerves. I guess strangers terrify her. But she was wonderful to me. And anybody that says she is an iceberg just don't know her, that's all—she's a warm-hearted woman."

JACOBY QUITS BRIDGE TOURNEY AFTER ROW WITH LENZ

FOES DROP 250 IN WAR-LIKE SESSION

BULLETIN.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Commander Winfield Liggett, Jr., his partner in many previous championships, was selected today by Sidney Lenz to succeed Oswald Jacoby as his running mate in his contract bridge tournament against Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson.

By J. C. OESTREICHER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The contract bridge partnership of Sidney Lenz and Oswald Jacoby was on the rocks today.

As the climax to a bitter quarrel Jacoby pulled up stakes at the end of last night's session and announced he was through.

He accused Lenz of unfair and unjust criticism of his playing and his bidding, put his top hat on and marched out, leaving Lenz with the difficult task of choosing a new partner with whom to continue his life-and-death match against Ely Culbertson.

From the viewpoint of sheer suspense and excitement, this incident and the return of Mrs. Josephine Culbertson to the game as her husband's partner served to make last night's session the most hectic since the tournament got under way.

'CAT-AND-DOG FIGHT'

Quarrels and polemics aside, it was a cat-and-dog fight during the eight rubbers which were played. Lenz and Jacoby succeeded in reducing the Culbertson lead by 250 points. When the combatants called it a night the Culbertsons had a lead of 16,840 points, and, for the meantime, only one opponent.

The Lenz-Jacoby flareup reached a climax after Ossie had made a psychic bid and Lenz, turning to him angrily as the other players gasped, demanded:

"Why do you make these rotten bids? You're having a lot of fun. Give me a break. I can't tell whether you have anything or not."

"After a show of perfectly stupid defensive bidding, you criticize my play publicly and in the middle of a hand. After this session, I'm through."

There was a short silence. Then Culbertson asked:

"Shall we play another rubber?"

Jacoby answered:

"Not with me, you won't!"

MAY MAKE PEACE

Culbertson's referee reminded:

"Under the rules you must play another rubber."

Jacoby wavered a moment, undecided. Then he sat down and play on the last rubber started.

Whether or not the Lenz-Jacoby smash is as permanent as it appeared when the two players marched pale-faced and trembling o t of the playing room early this morning remains to be seen, for after more mature consideration both the partners tempered their decisions. Jacoby said he was leaving his resignation in Lenz's hands because of his "high regard" for the latter. Lenz declared that Jacoby in all probability would return to the tournament "for at least one session" at some later date.

COUPLE IN AUTO ROBBED IN PARK

Bandits chose Schenley Park for their scene of operations and a girl and two men for victims in two holdups early today.

Meyer Sacks, of 5617 Margaretta street, and a girl were in a parked automobile near Westinghouse Memorial when three robbers appeared.

They took a $200 diamond ring and a purse containing $5 from the girl, a $45 watch and $30 from Sacks.

An hour later three bandits, believed the same men, encountered William McKee, of 6951 McPherson street, and relieved him of a watch and chain and a gold football valued at $40.

Phila. Police, Fire Wages Spared Cut

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—A policy of no 1932 pay cuts for firemen, policemen, park guards, house of correction guards or for city employes earning $1,200 a year or less, was decided upon yesterday at a conference of City Council leaders regarding city financial measures, Edwin R. Cox, president, said. No other changes were made in the scheduled 10 per cent pay cut for city and county employes.

Director of Public Safety Lemuel B. Schofield explained his plan to reduce personnel in the police force 100 and in the fire department 130.

JOHN D. LAUGHS AS GOOSE LAYS GOLDEN EGGS

Hails Good Times Song as 'Spirit We Need;' Plays Host at Christmas Party

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—John D. Rockefeller, the multi-millionaire, laughed at the antics of a toy goose that lay golden eggs at his annual Christmas party here last night and chuckled while guests sang "Good Times Are Coming." He commented at the conclusion of the song:

"That's the spirit we need. That's what will make us all smile."

The 93-year-old multimillionaire was the center of the party activities. It was a noisy, confused and gay affair.

Children squealed with delight as they received all kinds of presents. The spacious west sunporch of the Casements resembled a department store Christmas rush as they unwrapped their packages and tossed the paper around. But Mr. Rockefeller enjoyed it all. Several years ago his annual parties were almost exclusively for children.

The party continued well into the night and as it closed Mr. Rockefeller led the crowd in singing: "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

That has always been the closing song of the Rockefeller Christmas parties. He said to his departing guests:

"Bless you, bless you, bless you, good friends, till we meet again."

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that was centered over the lower Lakes yesterday morning is now in the Far Northeast and the warm center developed southward with increased intensity. It is now centered over Wyoming and Colorado and covers the Rocky Mountain and plains states. The weather is cloudy over practically the entire country but the precipitation is confined to the North Carolina coast and to the far western states. A ridge of high pressure stretches from Hudson Bay southward over the Ohio Valley states to the Florida peninsula.

Temperature changes were unimportant since yesterday except on the western side of the western low pressure where there was a rather marked drop. There is no cold weather east of the Rocky Mountains.

FIRE ROUTS 13 IN WILMERDING

Five families were driven to the street by fire which damaged seven buildings in Watkins avenue, near Middle street, Wilmerding, early today. One fireman was injured, but all of the 13 occupants escaped.

Damage was estimated at $25,000 by Fire Chief Thomas Hernon.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nejak and their six children, Mr. and Mrs. Marko Hayden and a son, Charles, 18, and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Scara fled to safety when the flames broke out in the two-story frame house of John Lawson, Negro.

The fire spread from Lawson's home to the adjoining home of Anna Watson, Negro, and the store and home of Attelio Pecora.

The fire was discovered by William Regalis, 17, who aroused the families.

Lawson's home was destroyed, the Watson home and the Pecora store were badly damaged. The other houses were scorched.

Fireman M. T. O'Neil, 45, suffered lacerations when he fell.

College Men Oppose Rules Against Drink

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Student drinking is not a matter for student regulation or control, delegates to the seventh annual congress of the National Student Federation of America decided today after a spirited debate.

Student opinion, declared Selwyn Ives, University of Florida delegate, is opposed to prohibition and this should prevent students from imposing penalties for drunkenness on the college campus.

Dog Catcher's Pay More Than Mayor's

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—As a dog catcher, Chris Christensen is something of a success.

For the first eight months of the present fiscal year Christensen has collected from the city a grand total of $1,926.22. In the same period Mayor Brown has drawn only $1,600.

FINLAND VOTES ON REPEAL OF DRY LAW

Skis, Skates and Reindeer Carry People to Polls; Blizzard Blocks Many

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Skis and skates and sledges, reindeer and automobiles, slithered and squeaked over Finland's snows today as the voting portion of the country's 3,500,000 people moved out to have its say on the 13-year-old prohibition law.

A roaring blizzard coming down from the North yesterday probably kept thousands of country people at home because of impassable roads.

During a brief but intense campaign an unusually strong interest has been aroused on both sides of the question, and observers here looked for a heavy poll during the two days—today and tomorrow—unless the weather is extremely severe.

DRAWN BY REINDEER

There was a touch of Santa Claus to the scene in the Far Northern sections, where "pulkas" filled with bundled Finns and Lapps and drawn by reindeer creaked through the darkness of the long Arctic winter night to reach the voting places in the villages.

The blizzard and the falling barometer yesterday chilled the favor of prohibition headquarters. The prohibitionists count on the farmers and workers to keep the country legally dry.

At the same time, in the warm headquarters of the "antis," hopes rose with the tempo of the storm outside. The official in charge said:

"The chief stronghold of the drys is Middle and Northern Finland. Here in the South and along the coast we know what evils and corruption the law has brought forth, so we are confident of victory."

ALTERNATIVE DECISION

Prohibition headquarters officials maintained the 13 dr. years have been a success, and have improved the economic condition of the country, increasing savings accounts and raising living standards. They admitted frankly there has been much corruption, but insisted the remedy is more rigid enforcement.

The issue is not a flat alternative. The voters will decide whether the law is to be continued, repealed, or modified to permit medium strength wines and beers.

Women's ballots are to be counted separately, and the influence of their vote will be definitely seen. Of the country's 1,780,000 voters, one million are women. Final counting of ballots will not be completed for several days.

CHILDREN SPUR SLAYING PROBE

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Identification of a suspect held in the kidnaping and slaying of 6-year-old Marian McLean as a man who molested small girls last June spurred investigators today in their efforts to solve the crime.

Three little sisters, the oldest of whom is 12, went before a lineup of five men and unhesitatingly pointed out the suspect as the man who sought to lure the youngest, 7 years old, away last summer.

The suspect next will be taken before Russell C. Chump, 28, who told police he saw a man, carrying a cloth basket covered with oilcloth, standing in front of his home early December 22, the same day Marian's body was found in a tenement basement. Chump said the man appeared nervous when observed, but he gave the incident no further thought until the child's body was found.

Police did not file charges after the suspect's identification by the girls, but indicated they would if he also is the man seen by Chump.

Sleeping Sickness Fatal to Erie Man

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Davis Cass Bole, 49, an insurance salesman, died today of sleeping sickness. He had been unconscious three weeks.

BABY PROTECTS BESIEGED MAN

GALLIPOLIS, O., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—A baby's crying kept the barricade of Chauncey Phillips, 35, secure from the law today for the third straight day.

Phillips, wanted on a lunacy warrant, locked himself in his home and threatened to let loose with a double-barreled shotgun at anyone who tried to enter.

Twice officers gave up. Yesterday Sheriff Charles H. Swanson and his deputies, determined to arrest Phillips, shotgun or no shotgun, appeared with tear gas bombs, but forbore to use them when they heard a baby wailing.

Phillips is not harming his family, the sheriff said, "so we decided to let him remain for a few days at least."

Blast Injures Man Burning Rubbish

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—An explosion in a pile of burning rubbish last night seriously wounded John H. Keefer, 20, of Hopwood. Keefer said he was burning rubbish when he heard a sound similar to the breaking of a bottle in a fire and something struck him.

Physicians say there is a small hole through Keefer's abdomen. They plan to operate, believing either a bullet or a piece of glass will be found.

Alberta 'Gold Rush' Paying $1.70 a Day

CALGARY, Alberta, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Small gold finds in this province during the past few weeks have caused hundreds to brave the North's deep cold and squat by icy streams panning for nuggets.

No big strikes have been made since 1897, but hard-working washers have found a steady, though small supply. The hardest workers sometimes net as much as $1.70 a day.

Pastor Quits Rum Fight, Everyone Has Still

SALEM, Ind., Dec. 29.—(Universal.)—The Rev. Pleasant Brown, evangelist, driven from his pastorate at Haleysburg, near here, and badly beaten because of his crusade against moonshiners, declared today that his campaign was unsuccesful because nearly everyone around Haleysburg was engaged directly or indirectly in the business or had relatives in it. He declared:

"I was dumfounded when I discovered that nearly everybody there had a still. I told them I would put them all behind the bars, but I was beaten and my life was threatened, so I got out.

"Right in my church, some of the members were relatives of the moonshine gang, so I didn't get much support."

Fire Captain Charges Brother Ruined Car

City detectives today arrested Frank Ross, 37, on complaint of his brother-in-law, James Lombard, fire captain of Engine Company No. 30, who alleged that Ross poured shellac into the crank case of Lombard's automobile and made it worthless. Ross will be arraigned tomorrow.

BANDITS SEIZE, LOOT TOWN

PINE RIVER, Minn., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—A band of six men, armed with machine guns and rifles, took charge of this community of 410 persons early today, slugged the constable, held a group of residents captive for two hours and looted stores.

Using the ruse they were on official business for Sherriff P. E. Little, of Brainerd, the men went to the Frank Marsh home at 3 a. m. Marsh was forced to direct them to the home of Constable Ole Hougward. He resisted their efforts to hold him and was floored by a blow as a raider struck with his gun.

When he revived, he was forced to accompany the group to a drug store, two homes where the robbers gathered their loot and added to their squad four men and three women prisoners.

Then the bandits leaped into their car and fled.

DETROIT, Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Theft of $15,000 worth of unset diamonds on the "Red Arrow," crack Pennsylvania Flyer from New York, was reported today by Morris Katz, of Brooklyn. Katz said he had placed the gems in a chamois bag under his pillow.

Movement of other passengers were checked and a futile search was made on the train.

Plan Standard Test For Drunken Drivers

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—A standardized test is being prepared at the crime detection laboratory of Northwestern University to determine the exact degree of intoxication of automobile drivers who are tipsy when they are involved in accidents.

This was revealed yesterday by Dr. C. W. Muehlberger, county toxicologist.

Boy Invalid Ready to Sell Dog Pal for Medicine

Because he is sick and his mother needs money to buy him medicine, Eugene Brady, 8, is reconciled to parting with one of his best friends, "Teddy Bear," 2-year-old Chow dog his aunt in Cleveland sent him a year ago.

The boy's father, Roy Brady, works in the Carnegie mills about six days a month, Mrs. Margaret Brady said. Eugene has been ill five of the eight years of his life. He once spent 18 months in the Children's Hospital.

Five weeks ago he caught cold which settled in his spine, and he has been in bed since. The mother yesterday said a doctor attending the boy gave her two prescriptions she could not have filled because she had only 60 cents. And Eugene declared:

"I guess we'll have to sell Teddy. It seems there's no other way."

Frightened Chinese Fear Attack on Last Important Manchurian Stronghold

started when a force of 1,500 Chinese including many regular troops laid siege to attack upon Lieut. Gen. Ta... Tamon's army from the ... in the hills 12 miles south of the city.

TROOPS BIVOUACKED

Tonight Gen. Tamon's forces were bivouacked ... side Panshan only 20 miles ... on Kowpangtze. Additional Japanese forces making a ... southward from Mukden along the Peiping-Mukden ... ... Hsinmin 70 miles north of Kowpangtze.

The next ... Japanese troop movement is expected to put Kowpangtze in the hands of Gen. Tamon's army tomorrow or the next day. When this city is taken the Japanese will be only 18 miles from Tsangho where there is an important railway bridge.

From the Japanese viewpoint Chinchow a walled town falls the moment Japanese troops are able to cross the Taliaiho River. No difficulty is anticipated in this regard. The waterway is frozen solid and the modern military equipment of the Japanese will enable them to cope with the problem swiftly and effectively.

Hundreds of automobiles and trucks have been dispatched to the Chinchow sector from Newchang and Mukden putting the Japanese within easy striking distance of the city across the country except for the mountainous districts.

CHINESE ROUTED

The initial attack by Chinese forces outside of Panshan was the signal for Gen. Tamon to throw the entire strength of his infantry, artillery and air force into the battle. Within a short time the Chinese had been driven northward with the Japanese in hot pursuit along the railway tracks.

At 11:30 a. m. the Chinese launched another attack. Their forces this time numbered 3,000 being augmented by additional regulars. After a stiff engagement lasting half an hour the Chinese again took to flight. At 1:30 p. m. the main body of Gen. Tamon's army had reached Wangchia-chung seven and one-half miles south of Panshan.

The Chinese losses beat a retreat abroad an armored train, which was pursued for a considerable distance by the Japanese while running fire was maintained.

Despite the intense cold, the Japanese soldiers waiting to cross the Liao squatted on the icy turf and munched a cold breakfast. They were taking no unnecessary chances, however, because they learned their lesson from numerous casualties due to freezing during the Anganchi campaign when hundreds were forced to go to hospitals with frozen arms and legs.

FUR-LINED SHOES

Consequently they were wearing fur-lined shoes with a heavy felt covering. Their overcoats were of the heaviest type and were also fur-lined, while their fur helmets almost completely enclosed their faces.

The Japanese established a line of communication between a base beyond Tientchwangti and Newchang by way of Hopei with an army of Chinese carts driven by Chinese coolies along the motor road east of the Liao River.

The bandit chief whom the Japanese seek to crush is named Gen. Laopeifeng meaning "Old North Wind." He was formerly a subordinate of Chang Tso Lin.

He is reputed to have a force of from 2,000 to 3,000 bandits under him. He is said to be pillaging the districts north and northwest of Tientchwangti.

Chen Named Chinese Foreign Minister

SHANGHAI, Dec. 29.—Eugene Chen, former foreign minister of the Hankow government, was appointed foreign minister of the new Chinese government today by the central executive committee of the Kuomintang (Nationalist party).

At the election yesterday Lin Sen, head of the legislative Yuan and a political veteran, was named to succeed Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek as chairman of the National government, a post comparable to the presidency. Lin, who lived for many years in California, was educated both in China and the United States.

Sun Fo, son of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, was elected as chairman of the executive Yuan. He is a former mayor of Canton and an alumnus of both Columbia and California universities.

At Nanking today Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, Chinese governor of Manchuria deposed by Japan, was ruled off the central political council of the Nanking government and replaced by T. V. Soong, minister of finance.

Chang was dropped because of the Kuomintang—Nationalist party's objections to the holding of political positions by army commanders.

TOKIO, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Princess Yi Kon, Japanese consort of the head of the former royal house of Korea, today gave birth to a son. The prince is a major in the Japanese army.

Two Bandits Loot Canonsburg Store

CANONSBURG, Pa., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Two youths last night held up a chain store and fled with $30. Al Miller, clerk, and three customers were in the store when the men entered, one flashing a pistol.

The two escaped in an automobile after looting the cash drawer.

Prince, Ex-Hubby Of Pola, Unmoved In Her Illness

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Prince Serge Mdivani shrugged his shoulders when he was informed yesterday that Pola Negri, screen star and formerly his wife, had undergone a critical operation here. He said:

"I hadn't heard about it."

Mdivani arrived from Chicago with his new wife, Mary McCormic, opera star. She declared:

"I'm just a wife now and am finished with the opera forever."

SOVIET CHURCH POLICY SCORED

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—The Rev. Dr. Edmund A. Walsh, vice president of Georgetown University, Washington, today attacked the government of Soviet Russia for its treatment of the Roman Catholic Church before the American Catholic Historical Association.

He asserted that since the revolution of 1917 it has confiscated church property and imprisoned bishops, priests and other church workers, in defiance of every law except its own, which is based on the theory that religion is opium to the people.

Within the area now under Soviet power, the Roman Catholic Church in 1917 had 614 churches in operation, 581 chapels, 810 priests, seven seminaries, and eight bishops, Dr. Walsh said. Now, he asserted, there are 182 churches, no chapels, no seminaries, 110 priests at liberty and 200 in prison, with two bishops at liberty and three in prison.

PRAGUE CLEARS VANEK OF 'PLOT'

Russia Trumped Up Charge To Discredit Nation, Czechoslovakia Asserts

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Karl Vanek, member of the Czechoslovakian legation at Moscow, accused of plotting an attack on the Japanese ambassdor to Russia, today was cleared of the charge, so far as his government is concerned.

A communique issued at the foreign office described the charge as "trumped-up and highly improbable" and added that "for some mysterious reason the Soviets seem to want to compromise Czechoslovakia in the eyes of the Russian people."

Moscow Assails Vanek For Alleged Plot

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—President Petrovsky of the central executive committee in its closing session yesterday denounced the alleged plot of a member of the Czechoslovakian legation to attack the Japanese ambassador to Russia. He said:

"As proved by the plot to organize an attempt on the Japanese ambassador to Moscow, international intrigues are being woven for creation of conditions to attack us. Fulfilling the five-year plan in four years will be vigilance against this menace.

"Let those who are preparing to attack us know that should this happen the toilers of the Soviet republic would rise as one man to protect their country."

PARK PREDICTS INDICTMENTS

"Well, well, I must be getting to be a big shot."

Others quizzed by District Attorney Park and his assistants, George F. P. Langfitt and H. R. Phillips, indictment expert, before the jury included Louis Becker, father-in-law of Joseph Englesberg, Hill politician now serving a jail term for liquor law violations. Miss Rhoda Turets, secretary in the treasurer's office, Harry Kunde, former employe of the Civil Service Commission, and Attorney William G. Negley.

AUDITOR QUIZZED

M. C. Conick, an auditor for Main & Co., was the first witness at the afternoon session. He is reported to have investigated records of the Franklin Savings and Trust Company for the District Attorney's office.

H. S. Breitenstein, accountant in the Mayor's office, was called, but was not in the witness room.

Records of the Treasurer's office, including check books, were taken before the jury, presumably in connection with the probe of alleged illegal rebating of delinquent taxes to politicians and other reported irregularities.

KERR SUBPENAED

Controller James P. Kerr was served with a subpena today to appear at a hearing before George F. Taylor, Jr., special deputy secretary of banking, scheduled for January 25, relative to transactions of the Franklin Savings and Trust Company. The bank is in charge of Taylor.

Dr. Frederick, campaign manager for Mayor Charles H. Kline, subpenaed yesterday to appear before the inquisition, dispatched two doctors' certificates to District Attorney Park, saying he was unable to appear, and Park may consider taking the grand jury to Frederick's home to take his testimony. Asked about it, Park said:

"I am investigating the condition of Dr. Frederick's health."

To all appearances, however, Dr. Frederick was able to function as usual as a physician, even though too sick, in the estimation of his medical advisors, to appear before the grand jury.

ATTENDS PATIENTS

He was absent from his home for more than an hour yesterday and on his return attended at least eight office patients, exhibiting no signs of illness himself.

Assemblyman Grenet, named with Frederick in connection with the indorsement of Kline campaign fund notes in the closed Franklin Savings and Trust Company, said in Harrisburg yesterday that he expected to appear before the grand jury on Thursday.

Included among those scheduled to appear today was C. C. Hamilton.

AIDES QUESTIONED

John M. McKibbin, chief clerk of the delinquent tax department of the city treasurer's office, under suspension and also indicted, and Albert Brandner, clerk also under suspension and indictment, who testified yesterday were not asked anything concerning the charges against them, it was indicated. McKibbin was before the jury for more than an hour and Brandner half an hour. This indicated, it was believed that they were willing witnesses.

President C. A. Bardolph, of the closed Franklin Savings and Trust Company; E. J. Heckel, assistant secretary, and W. J. Arlow, assistant treasurer of the bank, and John Pagano and Robert Succop, clerks in the delinquent tax division of the city treasurer's office, were the last witnesses heard late yesterday.

Solvent by $85,000, Can't Meet $6,107

R. J. Benkart and V. W. Thomas were appointed receivers today in Federal Court for the John Benkart and Sons Company, North Side, conducting a general haulage and warehouse business. An equity proceeding in which the company concurred was brought by Logan M. Crowe for claims of $6,107 on insurance policies. The firm was held solvent, with assets of $185,000 and liabilities of $100,000 but unable to meet current expenses.

CITY CUTS ALL SMALL PAYS

and an employe of the Supplies Department; Edward Townsend and P. J. Riley, of the Bureau of City Property. The motion to adopt the retrenchment policy was made by Finance Committee Chairman William Y. English, seconded by President John S. Herron.

Salary reductions made yesterday included Frank J. Swaney, secretary to Mayor Charles H. Kline, $5,000 to $4,500; Deputy Controller John P. Schilpp, Jr., $5,000 to $4,500; Samuel H. Todd, chief accountant, controller's office, $4,800 to $4,500; U. N. Arthur, chief engineer, City Planning Commission, $8,000 to $6,500; Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre, $7,500 to $6,500; Chief Engineer Charles M. Reppert, Public Works, $10,000 to $7,500; Engineer Tom M. Reed, $7,500 to $6,500.

70 JOBS ELIMINATED

Nearly 70 positions were eliminated. They include:

Supervisor of payroll; forester in Shade Tree Division; order clerk, contract clerk and commodity clerk in Supplies Department; special assistant, Department of Public Safety; designing engineer, Public Works Department, and superintendent of the Bureau of City Property.

A number of welfare items felt the councilmanic ax, as well as sanitation workers for the Department of Health. Plumbing inspectors were cut from 13 to 10, health and sanitation, from 33 to 30, and dairy inspectors, from 10 to seven.

Some time ago Council struck out the appropriation for the City Transit Commission for 1932. After yesterday's amendments were voted, the decision to declare a "moratorium" on this activity appeared confirmed. The only position provided for was that of secretary.

RALLY TONIGHT IN RATE FIGHT

Definite steps for the first action against excessive public utility rates are expected tonight at an executive meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association of Oakmont.

The committee, representing 19 boroughs, with City Treasurer W. J. Landis, of Monongahela, representing 11 municipalities in that district and a delegate from the Beaver County Federation of Boroughs will attend. The Allied Boards of Trade likewise will participate.

President A. B. Davidson, of Tarentum, today was meeting Thomas F. Chrostwaite, president of the Pennsylvania State Association of Boroughs, in Harrisburg to discuss entrance of the state group in the attack on gas, water, telephone and electric rates. A report of the meeting will be heard tonight.

WALKER HAILS ADS AS WAY TO PROSPERITY

Urges Newspaper Space Use To Free Hoarded Coach; Praises N. Y. American

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Advertising in newspapers will put hoarded money back into circulation and thus bring back prosperity, Mayor Walker declared last night, speaking to advertising agents of the New York American assembled in the House of Commons to celebrate the increased business of 1931. Three hundred persons attended the dinner.

The Mayor said:

"The New York American is a great newspaper, an honest newspaper and even though it does not always agree with me, a public official could not ask for more.

"Today there is too much money hoarded in ginger jars, under trees and attics. Advertising will take this money out of hiding places and put it back into circulation. Then there will be prosperity.

"A man who does not advertise will always be a secret and his business will be a secret, too."

Arthur Brisbane, noted editor of the Hearst newspapers, also spoke, saying:

"In advertising you must follow five rules. You must make men and women see your advertisement. It must be plain. It must be simply written. It must make people want what you have to sell. You must have faith in your product."

FLYING DU PONT BRIDE HURT

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Lost and flying blind in a dense fog over Staten Island, Mrs. Irene du Pont, bride of Willmington, Del., was injured slightly yesterday when her two-seater biplane crashed into a tree.

Her mother, Mrs. Richard Farnsworth Hoyt, went to the hospital where Mrs. du Pont was taken, but found her daughter's condition was not serious. Mrs. du Pont has a bruised nose, a cut chin and lacerations.

Her husband flew to Miller Field, Staten Island, from Wilmington and Mrs. du Pont was transferred in an ambulance to the home of her mother in New York. The du Ponts were married August 24.

Now It's News!
Dog Shoots Man

ANDERSON, Ind., Dec. 29.—(AP)—The old newspaper maxim was paraphrased here today to read: "If a dog shoots a man it's news."

While John Paul Gustin, 40, was out hunting yesterday he laid his gun down and his dog stepped on the trigger. The charge mangled Gustin's foot, possibly necessitating its amputation.

Drys Seize Liquor In Auto, Man Held

A 150-gallon still was reported seized on the Shaler Township farm of Andrew Palera. No arrests were made.

ADMITS KILLING HOLDUP AIDE

Arrested in connection with the killing of his companion during an attempted holdup in Center avenue, Christmas Day, John Keenan, 21, of Youngstown, O., today told Assistant District Attorney Roy Clunk and Homicide Lieut. Frank Ferris that he was unable to sleep and wanted to confess the shooting, detectives said.

Keenan said, according to Ferris, that he and Austin Cullinan, 23, the dead youth, went to rob the store of Morris Wolf, 1707 Center avenue. Ferris quoted him as saying:

"When we entered the store the man began to yell and I hit him on the head with my gun to quiet him. The gun went off and I saw Cullinan fall. I got scared and ran to 1413 Fifth avenue, where we had been living.

"The cops found me there and at first I wouldn't tell them anything. But I can't sleep and I want to get this off my mind."

RUDY ASSAILS BROADWAYITES

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Rudy Vallee came back to Broadway yesterday in no crooning mood. A bunch of anglers and panhandlers was his cheerful greeting to the people of the Great White Way.

He branded them such when asked about his speech up in Portland, Me., where he was reported to have told the hometown folks that his Broadway "friends" were backslapping hypocrites and he, for one, wanted to remain a rube and a hick. Arriving here his wife clinging to his arm, Rudy declared:

"I said that and I meant it."

Then he added the line about panhandlers and panhandling, also a remark about double-crossers.

UNITE BUREAUS, HOOVER AIM

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—(AP)—The administration plans a new drive for consolidation of government departments and bureaus as a means of reducing federal expenditures.

The President made the plan public today at a press conference.

Within a month or two after Congress has acted upon his emergency economic program, he will transmit a special message urging various consolidations.

Among them he named transfer of the Shipping Board into the Department of Commerce, a grouping under one head of the government's educational activities, creation of a bureau of construction to handle all federal building activities except for the Army and Navy, a combination of federal conservation activities and a similar combining of public health efforts.

Trade Board Seeks Clothes for Children

Appeal for clothing for children of 2 to 12 years was issued today by the Squirrel Hill Board of Trade Relief Association from its headquarters, 5825 Forbes street. Chairman G. W. Lutton said the contributions, which are for distribution in the Fourteenth Ward, will be picked up by the association if notified at Hazel 6941. A shoemaker has been engaged to repair shoes.

Tries to End Life In Auto Fire, Saved

EVANSTON, Ill., Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Stanley Hall, 31, a graduate of Dartmouth, was rescued last night from his burning automobile. He told an incoherent story of being the object of gang vengeance. Today he broke down and confessed he had attempted to take his own life.

2 Brothers, Sister Held in Robbery

Two brothers and a sister of Groveton had been held for court today in connection with the burglary of the Coraopolis Service Station, Coraopolis road. They are Joseph Gondek, 21, and Andrew Gondek, 18, charged with burglary, and Mrs. Frances Wisenski, 23, charged with receiving stolen goods.

Justice of the Peace George Kaszer, of Coraopolis, held them after hearing testimony that the brothers took more than $300 of auto accessories from the station.

Delay Extortion Hearing of Squire

The hearing of Justice of the Peace Joseph Buttyan, of Chalfant Borough, on extortion and conspiracy charges, was postponed last night until Thursday night by Justice of the Peace M. T. Gorham.

Buttyan is alleged to have accepted marked money to settle a liquor law violation. County detectives investigating asked postponement of the hearing to enable them to apprehend two constables and a Forrest Hills policeman who are implicated, they charge.

Overcome by Garage Fumes, Man Saved

Overcome by carbon monoxide while placing license plates on his automobile, Frank J. Baerman, 49, of 1402 Orchlee street, North Side, today was recovering in the Allegheny General Hospital. Baerman was found unconscious on the floor of a garage in the rear of his home by a member of the family late yesterday afternoon. Wins Divorce from North Side Doctor

Her husband refused to live with her for eight months after their marriage, Mrs. Mildred E. Demmy, 29, of 425 Iberia street, testified in her suit for a divorce from Dr. Edward J. Demmy, 29, of the North Side, granted by Judge W. Heber Dithrich in Common Pleas Court. She said:

"He just didn't seem to want a home. He wanted to be with his mother all the time, and he insisted on taking most of his meals there."

CUT REJECTED BY CARPENTERS

The Carpenters District Council has rejected the proposal of the Building Trades Employers' Association for a 25 per cent voluntary reduction in wages for 30 building trades, effective January 1.

Officials of the union, however, expressed willingness to negotiate with the contractors. The carpenters are not members of the Building Trades Council, which Saturday rejected the proposed wage cut.

Bricklayers, stone masons, marble workers, tile layers and terrazzo workers are likewise not affiliated with the Building Trades Council. It is understood they have placed the matter in the hands of their arbitration committee.

CITY INSURANCE CHANGE ASKED

The Pittsburgh Real Estate Board today recommended that part of the city's insurance policies be so written as to expire each year, replacing the method now used by Mayor Kline and department heads. The board's report covered steam boiler, building, fire, payroll robbery, automobile and elevator policies. Establishment of a city reserve insurance fund was opposed. The report said:

"The establishment of an insurance fund would be a step toward government entering into business and competing unfairly with established business enterprise. Reserve funds, after they have been accumulated for a purpose of this nature, are often diverted in future years for other purposes, thus defeating the entire plan."

URGES INTEREST IN ECONOMICS

Labor unions, the Allied Boards of Trade and the League of Women Voters of Pittsburgh were criticized by H. J. Farnsworth at a sparsely attended meeting of the first Economic Congress of Allegheny County in Carnegie Lecture Hall last night for lack of interest in the purpose of the meeting—united action on economic questions. He said:

"They're not taking a stand in trying to formulate plans for the relief of the people they represent. I suggest a formation of an economic council of labor leaders, women's organizations and business organizations."

Fourteen representatives of these organizations attended Farnsworth discussed economic questions.

Sixsmith, superintendent of the Conemaugh Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, has been appointed chairman of the transportation committee of the state and national conventions of the Reserve Officers' Association, to be held in Pittsburgh in April. He holds the rank of major in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

Widow Appointed To Husband's Post

Mrs. Lydia M. Strang was appointed Auditor of Mifflin Township by Judge William H. McNaugher, of Common Pleas Court, to succeed her husband, James T. Strang, who died December 1. Two others, Clara Grace Taylor and Edward A. Hillegas, applied for the post.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

The longest, most concentrated fiddling since Nero drew his bow is to be radio's tribute to 1932. It has remained for the radio rajahs to show that Nero was a piker after all. Roman fall will be nothing compared to the crash-bang that 1931 is to take.

The crash-bang of 1931, of course, should be celebrated. To put an end to it and its doldrums and welcome, thereby, a new deal of destiny deserves as much—well, almost as much—whoopla as the tremendous tidings on November. 11, 1918.

And so the radio rajahs have summoned their dance maestros from every part of the land, have bade them burst into melody not only for an hour or two as 1931 retreats into the limbo, but to whoop it up all through the night. Eight solid hours, to be exact.

Every maestro on the broadcasting payrolls, and there must be easily 1,000 of them, will do his duty. No matter if the maestros have been among the financially fortunate in the heebie-jeebie year of 1931, they are leaping at the chance to share their elation that a new year has dawned.

It's lucky they have enough music available. But, of course, they have. Tin Pan Alley has seen to that. Tin Pan Alley may not have been as industrious this year as in the years when the good Calvin sat so serenely on his throne, but it has an accumulation of tunes dating back to the days when America was pulling on the boots of commercial expansion, way, way back in the Roosevelt era. They will be dusted off to add to the din.

The radio rajahs are proud of their exploits, their technical achievement in being able to throw a switch and bring in dance tunes without delay or the slip of one crooning note from the farmost corners of the republic; yea, even from Paris, but they are modest about blowing their own trumpets over the opportunity of clicking their heels at 1931. Altogether too modest. Not one word has escaped them that it has become their special pride and privilege this year to dance the new year in.

It's the night when the dance bandmen come into their own, when 50 different versions of "Time on My Hands," 100 different versions of "Good Night, Sweetheart" will be offered. It's the night when the crooner and the fiddler and the saxaphone tooters will be glorified as they have never been glorified in all the history of the republic.

For years America has been dance mad. Dancing, in fact, has made us a docile and contented people. We haven't had time to worry about taxes and the coal bill and the high cost of duck soup can be forgotten. There's shuffling to do. The maestro is smiling so friendly. The music is so toe-tickling. We should worry.

Infantile Paralysis Still Eludes Medicos

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(INS)—Scientists still seek the cause and cure of infantile paralysis, which so far have eluded them, speakers told the twelfth annual meeting of the Association for Research in Nervous and Mental Diseases.

Dr. Lewis J. Pollock, Chicago, declared available statistics on the disease were too incomplete to permit judgment on the real value of any treatment of infantile paralysis used at present.

Woman Drops Lamp, Fire Destroys Home

CORRY, Pa., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—The farm home of James Bennett, two miles south of Corry, was destroyed by fire this morning. The flames spread to a garage and it also was burned. The fire started when Mrs. Bennett dropped a kerosene lamp.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

Leslie Howard and his cast with their perfection of acting, appearing at the Nixon this week in Philip Barry's "Animal Kingdom," attracted a large and fashionable house rivaling a Theater Guild or Professional Players' audience. And though the Alvin opened Christmas night with "The Vinegar Tree" last night it attracted many of the smart set.

A holiday air affected the smart gathering with folks chatting vivaciously in the foyer with friends in boxes.

Among those in boxes were the John F. Caseys, Mrs. Grant McCargo and Mrs. Franklin C. Irish, who wore cloth of silver and black velvet. Chatting with them were the junior George I. Craigs with Mrs. Craig wearing sky-blue satin with crisscross straps distinguishing the back, for mileage, and Rosemary Casey in red velvet.

Joan Diehl wore an interesting gown of black velvet having deep reveres of the velvet over the shoulder banded in white fur. Her mother Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl was also in the audience.

Mrs. A. Rex Flinn chose black velvet with a bolero jacket of white satin. Mrs. Blair Childs

Mrs. Gordon Fisher was in black crepe. Mrs. Alan S. Humphreys in cranberry red crepe and Louise Evans in gray taffeta with a bright blue jacket.

Mrs. John H. Ricketson III chose a two-color frock having a bodice of eggshell satin and a skirt of purple crepe. Mrs. W. L. Jones Jr. was in black velvet accented with heavy cream lace. The junior William Larimer Mellons were there with Mrs. Mellon in black velvet.

Mrs. Alan Magee Scaife looked regal in black velvet and Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock of New York chose a pasha green lace gown.

Mrs. William A. Duckham was in black velvet. Margaret Mann in brocaded lame and her sister Eleanor in red crepe.

Others there were the John C. Neales, Mrs. G. Harton Singer, Mrs. Samuel Hartwell Jr., Mrs. Dawson Painter and Mrs. James W. Arrott III.

Among the younger set were young Betty Bughman and Margaret Painter.

I also had a glimpse of Mrs. Alexander Mann, Priscilla Brown, the junior James E. Browns, the Joseph Scribners, the Thomas McGinleys, the Allen T. C. Gordons, the Samuel Harden Churches, the Francis McKnights, Mrs. Gilbert Rafferty, Isabel Adams, the William Booths, Miss Dorothy Slack, Mrs. A. G. Harlow, the junior Samuel Adamses and Nancy Hamilton.

Baroness At Alvin

wore a gown of beige chiffon embroidered in red and green with a pert jacket of crimson velvet, and a long ermine coat. Her mother and the father, the Frank J. Kiers, were there, too, and Mrs. Kier appeared in black, with a knee-length wrap of electric blue velvet. Mrs. Carl A. Miller wore eggshell satin with a wrap of black velvet embroidered with brilliants.

The appearance of the Princeton Triangle Club in "Spanish Blades" at the Pitt New Year's night gives promise of being a most festive affair. After the play, always attended by society, there'll be dancing at the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club for the rest. Princeton alumni, students and their guests.

One of the very largest of the school set parties this holiday time was that given last night by the Charles A. Bowes, of the Alden Court Apartments, in the Twentieth Century Club. The guest of honor was their sub-deb daughter, Margaret Rowe.

The ballroom was lined with Christmas trees decked in silver, and the stage had a hedge of holiday trees. The guest of honor wore a charmingly simple gown of cherry red crepe, and her mother chose deep blue lace.

Among those giving dinners at the club before the ball were the junior Wallace Hurtle Rowes, honoring Mrs. Rowe's sister, Vardi Marshall; the Frederic Ickes Mericks, honoring their daughter, Eleanor; Peggy Robinson, daughter of the William M. Robinsons, honoring Nancy Hine, of Cleveland, and Betsy Liggett, daughter of the Sidney Liggetts, honoring Helen Villas Willard Fullerton and Alexander Finn, of Cleveland.

Southern Club Gives Charity Ball In Unique Setting, Groups Present Specialties

A unique setting was provided for the Southern Club's annual charity ball held last night at the Hotel Schenley. At frequent intervals around the walls of the ballroom stood trios of huge electric Christmas candles, graduating in size from two to almost six feet, and these furnished the only light for dancing.

Between the candle triads were stationed wooden soldiers, high up on the walls hung clusters of variously colored balloons while below each cluster was a life-size animal head or toy projecting from a decorative panel all of which was a development of the motif of the ball—The House of the Dolls. This was chiefly exemplified by the special feature depicting a toy shop wherein the toy maker dreams that his toys have come to life and are dancing before him. Solo dances were done by Elizabeth Ann Hallock, Virginia Miller and little Peggy Wantzell, the last appearing from the middle of a great birthday cake. Then there was the dance of the wooden soldiers in French blue satin uniforms and the dance of the painted dolls, both adding to the colorful spectacle.

Fully 500 guests attended the ball which had been arranged by Mrs. Otto G. Richter and her committee. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Newell G. Alford, the latter president of the club, wearing black lace. Mrs. Richter's gown was of black taffeta with bands of green and silver for trimming. With it she wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids. Her niece, Grey Powell, of Fairfax, Va., who is spending the winter here, was gowned in American beauty taffeta effectively trimmed in rhinestones. Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Robertson were accompanied by their daughter, Betty, a Briar Cliff freshman. Mrs. Robertson had on black velvet, while her daughter wore a charming taffeta frock in an unusual combination of white and American beauty. Mrs. John William Rose appeared in a striking gown of flame taffeta with patterned trimming of silver.

500 at Affair

With her and Mr. Rose was their niece, Jacqueline Alvey, of Baltimore, wearing taffeta in one of the new red shades. Mrs. A. M. Lynn chose white chiffon. Miss Helen Ruth Deike's lovely frock was of mulberry taffeta. Mrs. C. Perry Kiefer's gown was of bittersweet crepe, which she wore with shoulder bouquet of gardenias. Mrs. Fitzhugh Lee was also in white. Mrs. C. B. Ellis wore violet velvet. Mrs. Walter K. Long was in green taffeta. Mrs. Fanny Loney Hoof, in black chiffon which she wore with a pearl-set Florentine ornament; Mrs. John M. Labberton's frock was of black lace and net, worn with black velvet at the waist line and orchids at the shoulder, and Mrs. Charles M. White was in pink.

BLACK SATIN FROCK VERSATILE GARMENT

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 29. — Take length of black satin, add to it a dash of white satin and you have a most wearable frock. Early in the season there was quite a lot of satin shown, but it hasn't been worn so much through the winter. But for early spring it would not be surprising to see several models of black satin with white satin touches, making a grand success. Such a black satin frock, cut on suit lines, is vastly becoming and is luxurious without being too lavish. The woman who goes about should find many uses for such a frock in her daytime wardrobe, as it can be simple enough for ordinary engagements and yet is rich enough to be worn at really important functions.

BUT ALWAYS an effort should be made to see that there is a dash and a gay air to the black satin frock, otherwise it has a tendency to look heavy and set, which means, of course, that it looks old and is inclined to make the wearer look rather too matronly, something that even the matron of long standing usually wants to avoid. And perhaps it is this tendency that has kept the black satin frock from having the success it really does deserve. But you will find that the new models have handled this very well.

PATOU IS SHOWING some grand black satin frocks, as you can judge from even one glance at the sketch attached. The black satin has a vest, scarf-facing and undersleeves of white satin. The wide diagonal band crossing the front of the skirt from hip to hip forms a jacket at the right side, where it buttons onto the body of the skirt. The narrow belt ties in a small bow at the center back.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Don't Spoil Present Looking Back at the Past

She was a bad girl; and she went right on being a bad girl.

She loved a married man. She took him from the perfectly fine wife who had tried to make him happy for seven years.

She lived with him openly, in order to force the wife to divorce him. Right down to the last, bitter dregs she drank the cup of her own wickedness and cruelty and consequent humiliation.

And then—well, what do you think happened then?

Can anything fine and good ever revive in a life that has descended to such a mire? Can a woman like that be worthy, ever again, of anyone's love or respect?

Read this letter, and decide for yourself . . .

WAS FLATTERED

"Dear Sally—

"Since coming here I have read your column regularly, and I am wondering if you can help me. You seem so very real and understanding.

"I have a story to tell. It is not a pretty story, but if it will keep even one foolish wife from tossing over a husband she really loves, or one silly girl from messing up her life, I'll feel I haven't wasted my time telling it.

"At 18 I was quite pretty, very conceited and badly spoiled. I was engaged to a charming boy named Ted, and we were going to be married when he finished college.

"Then that summer I met a man. He was 30, polished, sophisticated and enormously interesting. Incidentally, he was married. Of course you know what happened. I was flattered by the fact that he treated me like a grown-up, intelligent person instead of a child; and my wide-eyed, staring gullibility flattered him, I suppose.

"Anyway, it wasn't long before I found myself enmeshed in a whirlpool of emotion. I couldn't eat or sleep. And he was just as bad. He went to his wife and asked for his freedom.

RETURNED TO WIFE

"It seemed quite simple to us. Once she learned we loved each other, she couldn't want to keep him. Somehow, the seven years she had spent trying to make him happy seemed unimportant to us. But she fooled us. She was quite willing to see our love as a silly infatuation, and to wait till it blew over.

"Of course I'd broken my engagement to Ted. Then, after two years, I got the bright idea that we'd force her hand. We'd openly live together, and she'd have to give him a divorce. We tried it. We were together a year. It wasn't a success. I got sulky, irritable and tiresome; he got nasty and unbearable; and she still hung on.

"So we parted, and he went back to her! For three years she'd faced humiliation and indignity because she loved him—and she won!

"Now I am working, and it's fun; but I see myself, for the first time, as I really was. There is a grand chap in the office where I work. I've gone out with him a few times, but I know I must stop. His intentions are too honorable, and I realize I have a dirty soul and a dirty heart. I was willing to accept a cheap sensation rather than wait for real love. I am paying for it now, and how terribly.

"That's why I have written this letter. I want to warn other girls—to make them see how dreadful it is to ruin one's life as I have ruined mine; to make them see how lonely and unhappy such a dreadful mistake can make them. I want to keep them from selling their birthright for a mess of pottage, like I did. LUELLA."

PAID FOR WRONGS

Yes, child, I know. It's agony to look back on that dreadful mistake.

But it is also wicked to keep looking back on it—to spoil the present and future by looking back.

Remorse is a good and necessary thing, but continuous indulgences in remorse is as vicious a thing as any other form of intemperance.

It was wrong to waste those young years by your recklessness. It was wrong to hurt that other woman's life. But it is equally wrong to waste the present years—to hurt and deny your own life now.

Be sorry—then get over it.

You may have had a "dirty soul and heart" once, but hearts and souls don't have to stay dirty unless we let them. That past is behind you now. You're not that girl any more. You're an entirely new girl—wiser, stronger, cleaner, finer. You've suffered, and paid, and bought yourself a right to a new deal. Now take it.

Life demands no more payment from you. Life asks you, now, only to live. So put the miserable memories away and go on with life, and love.

Take the joy this fine man offers. Tell him honestly of the mistake you made. Tell him you're a good woman now—and believe it as you say it, for you are. And here's my deepest wish for happiness ahead!

Marriages Now Made and Broken More Like Troths Once Were—Fay King

FLOWERS AND CANDY INDICATED "SERIOUS INTENTIONS" THEN—ENGAGED? OF COURSE NOT — JUST GOOD FRIENDS!
FAY KING
BUT NOW COSTLY GIFTS AND CONSTANT COMPANIONSHIP MAY MEAN NOTHING MUCH

By FAY KING

There was a time if a young man began calling regularly on Wednesday evenings and Sunday afternoons armed with flowers and candy the family and neighbors began nodding their heads in approval and knew that an engagement would soon be announced.

A mother with a marriageable daughter could begin to congratulate herself that her daughter would soon be well settled in life.

But in these days it is difficult to tell whether a girl is engaged to a young man or not. A young couple may go about acting more engaged than the most engaged couple of other days, and yet insist that they aren't seriously interested in each other at all.

In fact, these days, marriages are made and broken more like engagements once were!

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Avis' Persistence Forces Madge to Arms

I have heard of the phenomenon known as "faces turning green," but never did I realize how much foundation there was for the old saying until I saw the indescribable expression upon Noel's face when Avis Arlen made her extraordinary proposal that he and she should join the Brixton house party uninvited. His instincts are those of a fine, sensitive nature, and his knowledge of social nuances is adequate, if not as completely faceted and as finely polished as that of his father. The cool impertinence which appeared to make him a party to Miss Arlen's audacity had so staggered him that he had no words save an explosive, "Heavens! No!"

But this patent discomfiture had no effect whatever upon Avis Arlen. Marion's disclosure that the Brixton house party would have both Yale boys and West Pointers as guests had had the same effect upon her that the sight of a loaded banquet table would have upon a starving person. I knew that she visioned unlimited admiration for herself and slights and consequent envying hatred upon the part of the other girls. Unhampered by personal dignity, with an imperviousness to the opinions of other girls and older people which would make a rhinocerous blush for his laurels, she was marshalling every resource of wile and will she possessed to secure her sharing in the house party.

She had put her hand upon Noel's arm, and her clasp was so firm that I knew he could not step away from her without being absolutely rude.

"Naughty No-el! to be so cross with Avis," she cooed.

"You must take back that 'No,'" she went on, and there was something in her voice, elusive but plain, which betrayed the vixen concealed beneath her apparent sweetness. But when Noel stubbornly remained silent without even looking at her, she swiftly changed her tactics, hoping, I surmised, that by doing so she could conceal her discomfiture. She took her hand from his arm and turned to Mary with a little pout.

"He's just got one of his naughty stubborn fits," she confided, "and if he thinks I'm going to coax him out of it, he's mistaken." In her words and manner there was the same assumption of ownership that had been hers since her entrance with him. I knew that she was watching Mary narrowly and I was proud of the aplomb with which my husband's winsome niece took the thrust and answered it.

"You might try lighting a fire under him," she said carelessly, and as Marion giggled and Noel winced, there flashed across Avis Arlen's delicately tinted face a venomous look which for the instant made her look twice her years. It was gone the next instant and she smiled at Marion, surmising correctly that here was the least experienced and most easily confused of the three feminine opponents facing her. I knew that she was quick enough to recognize that Mary, Marion and I could all qualify in that class.

"I'm not going to waste any more time on a sulky boy," she said. "You're the one for whom this party is being given, I know. Noel's been telling me all about you and how popular you are with all the college boys. You're going to be charitable and let a poor, lonesome little girl from the outside have a look-in, aren't you? I'll promise not to go after your special one."

The challenge was obvious. "If you don't let me come with you, it's because you're afraid I'll take all the men away." She might as well have shouted it, and as I saw the red flash into Marion's cheeks, and the instinctive, almost unconscious look of appeal she sent to me, I suddenly felt that the conventions of hospitality and courteous behavior were irksome chains. The desire to take Avis Arlen by the shoulders and turn her out of the house was almost overpowering.

"Why, I think that would be perfectly lovely," Marion stammered, bounded by the schoolgirl convention that never under any circumstances must the "other girl" be given a chance to think you are afraid of her wiles. But I did not give her a chance to finish.

"It would be charming," I said courteously, but inexorably, "if it were possible. But Mrs. Brixton is very conventional, and is also very easily upset by any changing of plans. I happen to know that every room in her country place will be filled, and that she would be much embarrassed by extra guests."

"But I wouldn't care where I slept," Arvis Arlen said, with an air of child-like naivete, and I realized that I had to reckon with a persistence like a battering-ram. "Surely she could put a cot in the room with you two girls," she smiled widely at Mary and Marion.

"That is not the question," I interposed hastily, to save the girls from answering. "I am afraid I must speak plainly, Miss Arlen. I do not know the custom of your friends, but I know my own and those of our friends. Mrs. Brixton would think it a grave social error if the invited guests to her home should bring other people with them. If there were time to consult her it would be different. But as it is, she would be so scandalized that I doubt if she would invite these girls again. I am sorry, but granting your—unusual—request is absolutely impossible."

Contract Bridge -:- OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

The Two-Club Convention Continued

Some players require 5½ honor tricks, instead of my own more rigid requirement of 5 quick tricks, for an opening bid of 2-Clubs, but usually the 5½ honor tricks are no stronger than (possibly not as strong as) the 5 quick tricks. Some players also require partner to hold 1½ honor tricks for any response to 2-Clubs, except 2-Diamonds; but again I find my one quick trick sufficient strength to make another reply than 2-Diamonds. Were I to wait until I had 1½ quick tricks to show another suit than Diamonds, I would expect to lose golden opportunities to reach our best make. The idea that 5½ honor tricks in one hand, with 1½ honor tricks in the other hand will enable partners to obtain more slams, is in my opinion of small consequence compared to the necessity of agreeing as early as possible, and as safely, upon a game make. Good bidders will usually smell out any possible slam without the assisting hand having to wait for more than one quick trick to at once show a biddable suit. Such minor details are more a matter for local option than for any general rules.

More important than any precise number of quick tricks are consideration of the number of strong suits held and the probable tricks held. With three biddable suits, like the three hands next shown, five quick tricks and seven probable tricks are ample strength for making an opening bid of 2 Clubs.

♠A9753 ♥AK64 ♣AK72 ♦
♠KQJ5 ♥KQJ6 ♣A ♦AK72

In case of the next hand shown there are only two biddable four-card suits, but there is compensation in the fact that 5½ quick tricks are held.

♠73 ♥AK85 ♣AK64 ♦ AQ9

With two biddable five-card suits, provided the probable tricks count at least nine, there may be only three quick tricks required for an opening bid of 2-Clubs, as illustrated in the next two hands.

♠AKQJ8 ♥KQJ107 ♣53 ♦8
♠AKQJ8 ♥QJ1097 ♣53 ♦A

Two six-card suits require only two quick tricks for an opening 2-Club demand, provided probable tricks count nine, as illustrated in the next hand.

♠KQJ1052 ♥KQJ973 ♣ ♦4

You may clearly disclose to your partner your particular type of holding by the nature of your bidding, after you have heard his response to your opening 2-Club bid. With the first hand shown below your jump into 3-Hearts, over partner's response of 2-Diamonds clearly shows that you hold a single suiter. With the second hand shown you should bid 2-Spades over partner's response of 2-Diamonds, then if partner bids either 2-No Trump or 3-Diamonds, your jump into 4-Hearts clearly shows that he must choose between your two strong suits.

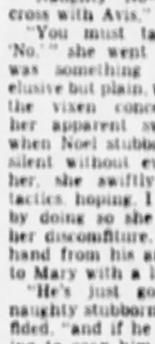
How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Neglecting a Felon May Cost a Finger . . . Or a Life

A common infection of the finger is known as felon. Every year hundreds of persons suffer the loss of fingers from neglect of this infection. In many a case a hand is lost. This is a terrible penalty for carelessness.



Dr. Copeland

The infection may be traced to a trifling pin prick, or some other injury so slight as to be completely overlooked.

The first symptom of felon is a throbbing sensation in the finger. The finger becomes red and swollen. If the trouble is neglected, the swelling increases and the pain becomes so severe that sleep and rest are impossible. The slightest pressure on the infected finger causes agonizing pain.

There is only one way to cure felon. It must be opened and the pus allowed to escape. This opening must be made sufficiently large to permit unobstructed drainage.

In the old days, felon and other infections were lanced. By lancing, only a small amount of pus was permitted to escape and complete cure was rarely obtained. Modern surgery requires that a wide opening be made and this assures a complete cure.

I cannot sympathize with people who refuse medical attention when suffering from this trouble. This attitude is taken because they fear having the felon opened. Most of us fear the knife, but instead of fearing this small operation, we should be thankful for the great relief it gives.

After the felon has been opened, even though the pain stops, report to your physician for the necessary drainage. This is essential, to keep the wound clean and free from contamination.

Warm boric acid solution is sometimes used for soaking the finger. Bear in mind that these soakings are of no value until after the incision has been made. They aid in drawing the pus out of the opening made by the knife.

Merely soaking the unopened finger in a hot solution does not help, because the pus cannot be drawn to a head, as it can be in a boil. This procedure, as well as other home remedies, may be dangerous, spreading the infection.

The structure of the hand is complex. It contains certain spaces in which muscles and tendons lead to the fingers, palm and back of the hand. The anatomy of the hand is such that there is danger of pus accumulating in the spaces, spreading throughout the hand, and even up the arm.

If you scratch or prick your finger, you should apply an antiseptic at once. If the finger throbs and there is pain, do not hesitate to call a physician. If you know that the scratch has been made by a rusty object delay is especially dangerous.

No matter how insignificant or unimportant a scratch or injury of your finger may appear to you, it is always advisable to consult a physician. Remember that fingers cannot be replaced, while neglect may endanger your life, and cause unnecessary misery and suffering to your family, who depend upon you for support and happiness.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Table Form

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The girls have been having quite a few arguments about the following questions:

1. Do you eat chicken with your fingers or with a knife and fork?

2. Also lettuce? H.

1. Chicken should be eaten with a knife and fork. It is the worst of manners to eat it in your fingers.

2. Lettuce should be eaten with the fork, usually a salad fork. And now, thanks to the new salad knives, we can eat hearts of lettuce or other forms of compact lettuce, the now increasingly popular form of salad, with both a salad knife and fork. The new salad knives are very attractive, and very convenient, and very sensible. Lettuce should never be taken in the fingers when it is served as a salad.

Personal Thanks

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it correct to send a thank-you card to a firm thanking them for the wedding gift?

Is a card these days just as proper as a personal "Thank you" letter? OFFICE GIRLS.

There are very few things in the social world that are in worse form than ready-made thank-you cards. They just mustn't be used if we have any claims to being well-bred or well-informed as to social details. Every present that the bride-to-be receives, should be thanked for by a personal note that she herself writes. And, if she does it really correctly, she will write each day a note for each present that has been received that day. Then, when she goes on her wedding trip, she will have all of her notes written.

THE DRAMA -:- New Barry Comedy Has Premiere -:- AMUSEMENTS -:- News and Notes About Stage and Screen

Philip Barry's New Samson Can't Say Good Bye To Delilah

By GEORGE SEIBEL

"The trees stood out just like—" said Tom Collier. "Like what?" asked his wife, Cecilia. "Whatever it is that trees stand out like," he replies. From this fragment of dialogue you may get a very definite idea of the new play Philip Barry has written and called "The Animal Kingdom." It had its first performance, its world premiere, at the Nixon Theater last night before an audience keyed up to great expectations and ready to co-operate in their fulfillment. They were sure something was going to happen. But this isn't that sort of a play. Philip Barry isn't that sort of a dramatist. One of the characters complains that everybody is so very elusive—and that complaint tells all about the play.

George Seibel

What Philip Barry has done is to take the story of Delilah, put Samson between two of them, married to one but unable to forget the other—and then kick the poor old wedding ring into the ash can.

He might have made a drama of it if he had been able to show his hero as a Samson. But Leslie Howard with all his delicate nuances of the very superior male, never convinces us that he is not a Philistine himself.

Consuming whisky and champagne in never-at-a-loss doses, quoting Brewster and Blake in quizzical abstraction, he is at most and at best a human pendulum of seesaw and if it isn't an accident that it, the last act, belongs to the mistress and not to the wife.

HITHER AND THITHER

The drama is complicated on a hither and thither design from the start. We find Leslie Howard as Tom Collier bidding his father to meet Kay Strozzi as Cecilia Henry, whom he is going to marry. The father has a wife from Tom—Cecilia has. But Tom must go off to say good-bye to Daisy Sage, to whom he is not married and in that scene he finds he cannot say good-bye.

There is a second act which repeats the formula and at the end of it Daisy runs away to Nova Scotia because she cannot say good-bye.

And then there is a third act in which Daisy is a house-guest in the Collier home and sees that Tom has been drugged by his Delilah and she runs away again and Tom alcoholically inspired leaves his Delilah waiting for him to gallop his Daisy in the meadows of Greenwich Village or whatever Bohemian coast it may be.

It is all elusive, elusive, indefinite, vague and episodic. There is no drama because the hero is a spineless Samson, whose prowess we must take for granted and his lady love is so bloodless that she hardly belongs to the animal kingdom. Charming Frances Fuller played her so elusively that any vegetarian would be enraptured.

TWO VITAL PARTS

If it were not for two vital parts the drama would be so much lachrymose. William Gargan is gorgeous as the red-headed Richard Bevan who has always learned a new magic trick and is ready to show it off. And Ika Chase is capital as the platitudinous Grace Macomber who almost knows when she has been insulted. The rest are the etheric types.

On Stage

Vivienne Segal, who tried the films, is back on the stage in "The Chocolate Soldier," opening next Monday in the Nixon.

Man on Road Killed, 2 Autos Wrecked

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Despite the fact that two automobiles were wrecked in attempting to avoid the accident, Thomas W. Conlin, 38, Union Township Constable-elect, was killed by one of the cars yesterday.

Conlin and another man were walking along a highway. To avoid striking the men, Clifton Kerr swerved his automobile and it went down an embankment. A machine driven by Elwin Griffith crashed into a pole. A coroner's jury will endeavor to determine which car struck Conlin.

Naval Destroyers Under New Officer

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—In a colorful ceremony aboard the U. S. S. Detroit, flagship, Rear Admiral Edward C. Kalbfus assumed command of destroyers of the battle force. The new commander succeeds Vice Admiral William H. Standley.

1931 Review In Metro News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Outstanding thrill pictures of 1931 are presented in sight and sound in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, being seen in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters, with graphic descriptions by the Globe Trotter. Some of the events that are pictured are the epochal flight of the Graf Zeppelin to the top of the world; the destruction of Managua by fire and earthquake; Kaye Don's miraculous escape from death in his capsized motorboat; the smashup of speeding automobiles on the Indianapolis track; the first flight of a windmill plane over Niagara; the initial voyage of the Akron; the war in Manchuria, and other important happenings.

RACES AT HAVANA

With American tourists making up a large part of the crowd of 10,000 race-mad fans, the season is opened at the famous Oriental track in Havana, Cuba. The weather is glorious, the crowd enthusiastic and the races thrilling as usual.

Alcala Zamora, recently elected president of the Spanish Republic is shown taking the oath of office in Madrid. Less than a year ago Zamora occupied a cell in jail, where he had been thrown by former King Alphonso on a charge of treason.

GANGSTER'S GIRL

Marion (Kiki) Roberts, sweetheart of the murdered gangster Jack Diamond, is interviewed by a reporter of the Boston American, who found her in that city. Kiki warns girls against failing to heed the advice of their mothers as she did and promises that she is going to begin life all over again.

The four little daughters of Mrs. Fred Hoerger are shown in an amazing series of diving and swimming stunts at Miami Beach, Fla. Mrs. Hoerger herself is an expert swimmer and diver.

Jack Holt, Cromwell Together Again

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

One place where the "good" do not "die young" is the theater. In fact, because the "bad" have such a brief existence there, it is necessary frequently to bring back some good thing of the past, so "The Chocolate Soldier" has been taken out of the mothballs for revival and will be presented in the Nixon next week. Queenie Smith will be the featured dame. Charles Purcell, last here, we believe, in the spring of '28 in "Hit the Deck," will be the candy kid. Seating for same will be in the preliminary stage at the b. o. by Thursday.

Small Timer says: "The Lock on the Barroom Door" is just as pathetic to some as the old-time face on the floor.

Fox paws of the Malaprop variety generally are funny enough of themselves to warrant their inclusion in plays, just for the laughs they create, but in "The Vinegar Tree," continuing in the Alvin, they are an intrinsic part of the comedy itself. Mrs. Merrick, the current Mrs. Malaprop, is the role played by Mary Boland. There will be matinees tomorrow, Friday and Saturday.

Small Timer says that now, more than ever before, lack of dollars in some quarters implies a lack of sense.

Katharine Cornell's "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" now is the oldest drama on Broadway, and will be one year old February 9, but will have had only 11 months of existence, since it closed for a month in the late summer . . . Constance Collier, seen here this season in "Mrs. Moonlight," is to be the star of a revival of Noel Coward's "Hay Fever," opening tonight in New York . . . Billy Bryant's showboat company, wowing 'em in Chicago, may be moved to New York shortly. Bill usually winters along the shores of the Monongahela . . . "A Lancashire Lass," standby of many old-time ten-twent-thirt companies, is to be the first play of a company that plans to revive old melodramays in N'Yawk . . . Charlie Chaplin is credited with having written a story that will introduce Feodor Chaliapin, noted Russian singer, in a talkie to be made in England with English, German and French language versions . . . Kent Douglass of the films is Douglass Montgomery on the stage of New York, where he is appearing in "Fata Morgana."

New Schubert Operetta Great

By MILDRED FILLMORE

Rare comedy, true pathos, rich romance and the divinest melodies on earth make the new operetta at the German Cinema in Liberty street, the Avenue one of the most enjoyable of all things offered in this little theater. "Schubert's Fruehlingstraum" (Schubert's Dream of Spring) is ahead of "Two Hearts in Waltz Time" and ahead of "Blossom Time," which was a German comedy very nearly spoiled in jazzing it up.

All the famous Schubert melodies, from the Serenade to the Ava Maria, are in this delightful new comedy, and they are where they belong—not dragged in by their golden tresses.

Schubert is the hero, of course, during his brief experience as a village schoolmaster. The landlady of the inn falls in love with him, the daughter of a count plays with his heart. It is all very sweet and very sad and very romantic—and there has been no lovelier music since those morning stars sang together.

Mothers welcome Vick "Colds-Control" Plan

Mothers are constantly faced with the problem of colds and their costs. It is the mothers, therefore, who especially appreciate the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home—just perfected by the makers of Vicks VapoRub. The Vick Plan is made possible by a new preparation, Vicks Nose and Throat Drops, based on a new idea in preventing colds. It is a companion product to VapoRub, the modern external method of treating colds. That is, they aid and supplement each other.

HERE, BRIEFLY, IS THE NEW VICK PLAN:

1. BEFORE a Cold Starts—

Watch yourself and your children when exposed to anything that you know is apt to bring on a cold, such as—Contact with others having fresh colds—crowds, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms, public places—a night on a Pullman or a dusty automobile ride—sudden changes in temperature—inhaling smoke, dust, gases—excesses in living, such as over-eating, which reduce body resistance—after a hard day when you are over-tired.

Then—if you feel that stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages, Nature's usual signal that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Nose Drops at once, just a few drops up each nostril. Repeat every hour or so if needed. This will prevent many colds by stopping them before they get beyond the nose and throat—where most colds start.

2. AFTER a Cold Starts—

At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub (now available in white "stainless" form, if you prefer). Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed-clothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising can be inhaled all night long.

If the air-passages are badly clogged with mucus, melt some VapoRub in a bowl of hot water and inhale the steaming vapors for several minutes. (If there is a cough, you will like the new Vick Cough Drop—actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.)

During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Nose Drops every few hours as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment and without the risks of too much internal "dosing," which so often upsets digestion—especially of children.

TRIAL OFFER BY LOCAL DRUGGISTS

Proof of this Plan is in its trial—in your own home. Get a bottle of Vicks Drops today. Keep it alongside your trusted Vicks VapoRub. Use them together as directed. Their better "Control-of-Colds" will be noted in fewer colds—colds of less severity and shorter duration. An actual saving to you in money, loss of time and health. Otherwise, the test will cost you nothing. Unless you are delighted with results, your druggist is authorized to refund your money.

To Reduce your Family's "Colds-Tax"

Sheridan Has New Bill

Four new acts of vaudeville and the talking screen version of Molnar's comedy, "The Guardsman," with Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne in the roles they created in the Theater Guild production of the play, opens today in the Sheridan Square.

The vaudeville is headed by Frederick Craig Jr., described as the man with the index brain.

Midnight Shows Here New Year's Eve

A number of local playhouses plan midnight shows New Year's Eve. There will be stage and screen features in the Stanley, Penn Sheridan Square, Enright and Harris; pictures in the Davis, Fulton and Warner and burlesque in the Academy.

Heroine

Tallulah Bankhead has the heroine role in "The Cheat," which will come to the Fulton January 7. "Delicious," current film, will remain for a second week, beginning Thursday.

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W. W: The husband of Alice Joyce phoned. Said thanks for that lovely posey . . . Ditto from Wm. A. Brady for Grace George. Your series on versions of the show-folk squelch, viz: "I hope all your children become acrobats, etc.," is still going strong. Alf Robinson submits: "I hope all your brats become acrobats—and miss the net!"—and Jim Niles of the American Weekly comes: "I hope all your children become acrobats, for then there might be SOMEONE in your family who would know the ropess!"

Harry Evans has hit upon a new and attractive manner for reviewing flickers in the humorag he managing edits . . . Mac Benoff phoned . . . Offers this: "Many a nobleman would be only too glad if he could get a coat for his coat of arms!" . . . He also argues that no columnist is better than his strongest contributor . . . O, yeah?

Barrie Payne, of Elmhurst, L. I., phoned. Said he overheard the following in a small town newspaper office. The editor, it appears, had phoned the columnist and charged him with imitating, and the columnist screamed: "I'm not doing anything of the kind! He uses three dots between his sentences and I use four!" Roy L. McCardell's "Jarr Family" will be revived for the airwaves . . . Oh, I almost forgot. Greetings and a Happy Stew Year's Eve!

Terry Turner called from Bridgeport . . . Terry's importing the royal household of Ubangi Savages, the duck-billed women . . . They'll arrive about Jan'y 8 to open at the Roxy. It is not the same troupe Terry imported for the Ringling Show . . . I saw the photos—ugh! . . . The "Queen Mother" who reigns over the village of De-Kaybe, principal center of the Tribus Sara Naba (What!—no abba-dabba?) in the French Congo, boasts a lip measuring 18 inches in diameter . . . This certainly is more lip than any American woman can hand out . . . Terry said to tell you that these duck-billed femmes use red clay for lipstick, and that it is just as valuable there as lipstick is here . . . That there is no such thing as divorce among those savages . . . The husband just labels the erring frau "N. G." and throws her back to the in-laws.

Very interesting (if true, of course) . . . However, here's more . . . The disc lips originated among them when enemies from the African Gold Coast raided the Ubangi villages and thefted the better looking gals. . . . So the men "uglied" them up to halt the piracy . . . Terry also said that in his contract with them they insisted upon a clause which would "assure" their women from being molested by American males.

If you asked me—the people this year overdid those "naughty" holiday card gags . . . I'll bet nine out of 10 card-senders sent the same cards—thus boring me and a lot of people stiff . . . No joke is funny when it is told twice the same day . . . But can you imagine all the cards (like those) that were sent to Herbie Hoover? . . . As if attaches would let him see them! . . . (My, my, Mr. Hoover! What huge waste-baskets you have! Ummmm—bigger'n' my boss has!) . . . Wouldn't this be a good time to start a Hall of Blame? . . . That's not my crack—it came from somebody—I just wrote it down to see how pediculousy it looked in type . . . Did anyone ever call attention to the fact that Broadway runs from the Battery to the Battery?

On Spring street, near Lafayette, the employes of a shoe store are on strike. All day long two of them parade up and down in front of the place bearing placards which scream out: "We are employes of the R— Shoe Store On Strike!" . . . But the wideawake management pasted a huge sign on the front window of the shop which most amusingly says back: "Ladies and Gentlemen, please note that the gentlemen walking up and down in front of this store are wearing shoes we sell—the finest wearing shoes ever made!" . . . Haw!

Thanks for the thrill of letting me have a peek at the grandest of the greatest Garbos . . . Even with her black specs I could tell her from that walk—that plain, but attractive style, those flat boots and her poise . . . I tried my best to get her Paramount friend to Do What You Instructed—but he was timid . . . He feared asking her, he said, for this snatch of "freedom" (that's what Greta calls it) is all she asks for in her exacting career . . . Well, anyway—I've seen Garbo—now let me die!

RAILWAY 'LOOP' PROPOSED HERE

Chicago's famous railway "loop" would be duplicated for Pittsburgh if city Council follows a plan devised by Roy Greene of Termon avenue, North Side.

The plan, submitted yesterday, provides both surface and elevated railway lines from the North Side through the East End along Water street through the Wabash bridge and tunnel to the South Hills and West End, then across the Ohio River to the original North Side station.

Green said the elevated and surface lines could be built at much less cost than a subway for the same distance.

State Educators Nominate Heads in Session Here

'LID' CLAMPED ON EAST END FOR NEW YEAR'S EVE

ELECTION SET IN EDUCATORS' CONVENTION

Dr. Graham Assured Post In State Association; Fight On Salary Cut Is Urged

Election of officers and a score of departmental meetings were scheduled today for the 4,000 delegates attending the convention of the Pennsylvania State Educational Association.

Nominations were made at the opening meeting in Schenley High School last night. Election of Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of Pittsburgh public schools, as second vice president was assured when his was the only name put forth.

HAAS, DIEHL NOMINATED

For the presidency, Dr. S. B. Haas, president of Bloomsburg State Teachers' College and former State Superintendent of Education, and John C. Diehl, Superintendent of Erie schools, were nominated.

Speakers at section meetings in 10 Oakland auditoriums included Tensard DeWolf, former police magistrate of Pittsburgh, and Joy Elmer Morgan, editor of the association's journal.

Florence Hale, of Augusta, Me., president of the National Education Association, addressing a meeting of county superintendents declared the exodus from town and country to the city has halted. She added:

"In its place city people are looking and clamoring for the country."

The principal drawback of the country, Miss Hale said, are lonesomeness and loss of social contacts. She proposed the establishment in the rural schools of a room, or portion of a room, to be devoted to music and art.

Dr. Max McConn, dean of Lehigh University, speaking to a group of 50 college presidents and others, reported "some ebbing of the athletic mania" and a movement towards faculty-student cooperation.

PAY CUT FIGHT URGED

Teachers were warned to fight salary reductions by Miss Harriett M. Chase, of the National Education Association. She urged greater organization by teachers to avoid "a breakdown" in salaries.

Besides officers, committee nominations were to be voted on today.

Five members are to be elected for two-year terms on the committee on legislation. The nominees: Dr. B. B. Smith, of Connellsville; J. W. Sweeney, Elk County; Dr. Holman White, Philadelphia; John H. Adams, Pittsburgh; Clarence Olendyke, Scranton; B. A. Rishberger, Crawford County, and R. K. Smith, of Dunbar Township.

Six were nominated for the five places on the committee on resolutions: R. W. Robinson, Greensburg; William H. Macklehutton, Somerset; A. H. Howell, Wayne County; Dr. C. C. Green, New Castle; Dr. Landis Tanger, Millersville, and W. W. Evans, Columbia County.

W. M. Pierce, of Ridgway, and Paul Whitmeyer, of Carbondale, are unopposed for the committee on teacher welfare.

Russians Try To Put Japanese 'Legs' on Spot

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Our outside man in Moscow has cabled the upside-down on the plot to put the Japanese ambassador on the imported spot.

The gangster influence has finally reached Russia. They say Czecho-Slovakians ribbed a Soviet employe to put the finger on Legs Hirota.

The minute Legs Hirota stepped out of his bullet-proof kimono he was to get it. That would start a war with Japan, and the Slovakians would muscle in on the territory.

The Russian Gandhi who brought that goat around is known as Mr. G. It sounds plausible. But what does Russia want with another war when Japan has one all cooked up for them in Manchuria?

And why place the rap on the Slovakians? America has no interest in wars that are too far away to help Wall street.

It's a very likely story. But it probably started when the Don Cossacks hi-jacked a load of goulash.

COAL FIRM SUED FOR WAR TAXES

A suit to recover $92,444.27 in war-time taxes from stockholders of the Lake Trade Coal Mining Company, of Windber, Pa., which went out of business 11 years ago, was filed yesterday in Federal Court by United States Attorney Louis E. Graham and John A. McCann, Pittsburgh representative of general counsel, Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The petition charges that the amount is owed the government for taxes for the years 1918, 1919 and 1920. Those named as defendants are Harry J. Filer, Harry J. Filer, Jr., John Lochrie, Thomas Lochrie and Calvin A. Davis.

Storms, Record Rain Sweeping California

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Storms still held sway on the Pacific Coast today, bringing more than two inches of rain to Los Angeles in 24 hours and driving 1,500 persons from their homes in the lowlands of Long Beach, a coast city.

Ten-year rain records for December were broken in Los Angeles.

BOOK TO REFUTE EINSTEIN, SAYS CALLAHAN

Proof of His Mathematical Claims Promised by Head Of Duquesne University

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Assertion that he would disprove Einstein's theory of relativity was made here yesterday by the Very Rev. J. J. Callahan, president of Duquesne University, Pittsburgh.

He said he expected to present the proof in a two-volume work, "Euclid or Einstein," to be published soon. Father Callahan recently provoked a storm of criticism from mathematicians when he announced he had trisected an angle by plane geometry, one of three problems which had been considered insoluble.

During an interview, he exhibeted the geometrical proofs which required proving 13 propositions. The fourteenth, a corollary to the thirteenth, provides the trigonometric functions of the trisected angle, he said. He declared he could silence skeptics when his complete proof was published.

He also told of a prior "discovery," which he said was more important. This was proof of the fifth postulate of Euclid—that two parallel lines never meet. This proposition, he said, was accepted by Euclid himself as if proved and through the centuries mathematicians had tried to prove it and had failed.

At length, he said, when it was believed impossible to prove, a non-Euclidean school of geometry was founded, based on the assumption that any two lines meet. It was on this system of mathematics that Einstein based his theory, Father Callahan asserted, adding that his proof of the Euclid proposition should disprove definitely the relativity theory.

Man in Marriage Market, Asks $500

LORAIN, O., Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Getting an early start for leap year, Daniel Morano, 25, today declared he would throw himself on the open marriage market—for a consideration.

For the small sum of $500, Marano said, he will marry the first girl who proposes to him in 1932. He declared he needs the money to "start in business for himself." Marano is a boxer and a taxi driver.

TUBE PURCHASE 'RUSH' PLAN DENIED

McGovern Checks Rumors Over $4,200,000 Deal For New Traffic Artery

County Commissioner C. C. McGovern today had dispelled any impressions that the proposed sale of the Wabash bridge and tunnel to the county would be "rushed through" before the new Board of Commissioners takes office January 4.

McGovern expressed surprise that there were those who think he and Commissioner E. V. Babcock, who constitute the present board, would try to push through the deal for a new downtown traffic artery to the South Side.

The Commissioner's statement means that he, with his new colleagues, C. M. Barr and William D. Mansfield, will consider the new offer of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad, owners of the bridge and tunnel, to give the county a completed traffic artery for $4,200,000.

McGovern suggested that if the traffic lane is set up, it might result in a building boom in the Point district.

Braddock Boy Hit By Automobile Dies

Carl Hemley, 7, of 852 Willow way, Braddock, died in the Braddock General Hospital early today of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile driven, police said, by George Kranovich, 31, of 348 Fourth street, Rankin, as he was crossing Sixth avenue, Braddock, last night. Kranovich was held on a reckless driving charge.

POLICE ORDER PUZZLING TO RUM SHOPS

Patrolmen Given Notice . . . Report Speakeasies Which Fail to Obey; Raids Due

East End police today were given orders to close every speakeasy in the district before New Year's Eve.

Patrolmen were instructed at roll call this morning that they would be held responsible for violations of the order if any occur on their beat. They were told to report any saloon or club which insists on defying the closing order, to their lieutenant who will have the place raided.

East End bootleggers and speakeasy proprietors were frankly puzzled at the order. Many of them believed it was one of the usual police announcements, given to satisfy demands from church workers and prohibition supporters.

Others pointed out that in the past the orders to close have been given to police lieutenants who have spread the word among the liquor dealers, who sometimes closed and sometimes, if politically entrenched, laughed it off. Those who recalled this fact, feared the worst in view of the orders given the patrolmen.

RAIL EMPLOYES TALK WAGE CUT

CLEVELAND, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—The 21 representatives of 1,250,000 railroad employes were called together today to determine a date for negotiations on unemployment and the railroads' plan for a 15 per cent wage cut.

The negotiations will be held in Chicago, with the Railway Labor Executives Association representing the workers and nine presidents presenting the railroads' side of the question.

Labor executives expect the conference to start the week of January 10. D. B. Robertson, chairman of the executives' association and president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, said the date will depend upon progress made in canvassing the membership of labor organizations for authority to negotiate with the railroads.

HUNT KIDNAPER SUSPECT IN PA.

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Belief that Martin DePew, alleged leader of the Kansas City kidnaping gang, which abducted Mrs. Nell Donnelly, is hiding in Northeastern Pennsylvania, was expressed today by Robert Cole, Kansas City detective. He said:

"I feel sure he is somewhere around here. I have a definite hunch."

Removal of Mrs. DePew, wife of the man sought, to Kansas City, where she is charged with being a principal in the kidnaping, was postponed yesterday. Mrs. DePew has said she will waive extradition, but is awaiting the return of her attorney before signing the waiver.

Mrs. DePew told police when she surrendered here December 24 her husband left her in Buffalo, N. Y., saying he was going to Canada.

Einstein Nears Port, To Get No Ovation

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Far different from his first arrival in this country, when he was besieged by crowds in New York, Prof. Albert Einstein, will arrive at the harbor this evening aboard a German motorliner loaded with Central American bananas.

Prof. Einstein held one New York welcome was sufficient and will be met here by a few members of the staffs of the Mt. Wilson Observatory and the California Institute of Technology.

Will Obeyed, Rites Banned at Funeral

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Dec. 29.—Charles Smith, 80, retired mine superintendent, who died suddenly Christmas Day at Summerdale, was buried yesterday without religious rites as provided in his will under penalty of disinheritance of his heirs.

Former Councilman John Congleton, Jr., of Dover, delivered the oration. Smith's will banned flowers at his funeral, but some were received. His request against music was carried out.

EXTORTION LAID TO POLICEMAN

Thomas O'Bronovitch, plainclothesman attached to Woods Run Police Station, was free under $2,500 bail today, following his arraignment yesterday before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan on charges of blackmail and extortion. He was held for court.

County detectives testified they arrested the officer in the home of Mrs. Anna Gustis, Ridge avenue, December 18, with $50 in his possession, which had been given him by Mrs. Gustis. The officer said he received the money in payment for 100 tickets for a Twenty-first Ward benefit.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—(INS.)—William H. Selby, 27, who until recently was a student of the Moody Bible Institute, was in police custody today in connection with the disappearance of pretty Catherine Burns, 17, of Plainfield, N. J.

Selby said Catherine had left him Sunday after telling him she was going to meet a girl friend.

East Pittsburgh Speakeasy Gun Death Probe Opens

A special investigation of the fatal shooting of John Hohman, 45, of Linden avenue, in an East Pittsburgh speakeasy was to be opened today by Coroner W. J. McGregor.

The Coroner announced he was not satisfied with the county detectives' investigation. The detectives reported Hohman was shot accidentally by Police Lieut. David Bennett while the latter was demonstrating a revolver.

Bennett surrendered yesterday and posted $5,000 bond at the Coroner's office for appearance at the inquest. His explanation of the shooting has been that he did not realize the gun was loaded, later recalling that he had inserted one bullet while chasing a Negro fugitive.

Hohman and Bennett, said to have been good friends, went to the speakeasy, police were told, after distributing baskets of food to needy families in East Pittsburgh.

HOW LEVEE BROKE BEFORE FLOODS

AN AERIAL VIEW OF THE LEVEE THAT BROKE BEFORE THE TIDES OF THE TALLAHATCHIE

The levee that broke near Crowder, Miss., allowing thousands of cubic feet of water to pour through thousands of acres of land. Many sections along the Mississippi are deeply flooded.

LEVEES WEAKEN IN FLOOD AREA

GLENDORA, Miss., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Hastily reinforced barriers hourly weakening under the steady battering of flood waters today alone protected the lowlands around Glendora from the menace of the swollen Bayou Cassidy.

Meanwhile, the Boeuf River, backed out of its natural course by the overflowing Ouachita, drove a dozen or more families from their homes near Monroe, La.

Rivermen called the situation alarming today as flood fighters, who were able to bridge a gap in the Bayou Cassidy levee system yesterday, strove to meet and hold off the increasing crush of water.

One hundred convicts from the penal farm at Parchman were pressed into service to fight off the threatened smashing of the weakened dykes along an 11-mile front in this section when the flood reaches its expected height today.

GANDHI URGES FINISH FIGHT

BOMBAY, Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Mahatma Gandhi, home from the ineffective conference in London to an India still more unrestful than the one he left, today was girding his followers for an aggressive fight to the finish.

The aged Nationalist leader on his first day here broke his day of religious silence to address a large gathering of his adherents. He advocated a belligerent attitude for India in her fight for independence should peaceful means fail.

When Gandhi first disembarked from the S. S. Pilsna he did not talk. Observing his usual Monday custom. However, when he learned later of the new riots which accompanied his homecoming, in which 25 were seriously injured, he spoke.

In an interview he expressed great concern and worry over the situation. Still later, after he had seen more of the violence and agitation sweeping the country, he addressed his followers and declared he would be willing for India to sacrifice a million lives in the fight.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

CHORUS CALLS are, to me, very sad affairs. Girls and women of every age and description stand in line and hope for the best. Out of every 50, perhaps one is chosen. The rest file out slowly and in a depressing manner. As far as they are concerned, just one more dream has been shattered.

I've watched any number of these calls during my rather vague career on Broadway. You find plenty of comedy in them, but the tragedy always overshadows the laughs. The other afternoon, for example, Dr. Florenz Ziegfeld announced that he needed 77 damsels for the Follies and for his new show that will shortly go into rehearsal.

With conditions as they are, the girls flocked in by the carload. A few were picked, the great majority were sent away. I was sitting with Bobby Connolly, the great dance director, when one rather pretty girl stepped over to us.

"Mr. Connolly," she said, "Mr. Ziegfeld didn't pick me and I must have a job."

Bobby was very nice about it. "I'm sorry," he returned. "But I don't think that anything can be done about it. If Mr. Ziegfeld didn't choose you, I'm afraid that's all there is to it."

The girl bit her lip.

"But you don't understand," she muttered. "I must have work. I must. I tell you, couldn't he make an exception and hire me to scrub the floors or dust the seats in the theater? Won't you speak to him?"

"Tough days, my friends. Not much comedy there, eh?"

Bobby and I were still talking about that situation when another girl came bouncing up the aisle.

"Get a load of this dame," whispered Mr. Connolly. "She's been around here for three days, and Mr. Ziegfeld isn't sure whether he's going to hire her."

Every chance she gets, she rushes to me and asks if the boss has made up his mind yet. Watch."

That's exactly what happened.

"You'll have to tell me now, Mr. Connolly," she chirped. "Have I got the job or haven't I? I absolutely must know right away."

The dance director shrugged his shoulders.

"I've told you so many times, Miss B.," he asserted, "that I don't know yet. It's all up to Mr. Ziegfeld. And until he makes up his mind you'll just have to wait."

"But you don't know how important it is," she persisted. "It means everything to me. I must know right away if I've got the job."

At this point, with his customary curiosity, Mr. Hellinger stepped into the breach.

"May I ask," he inquired, "what your reason is? Is it as important as all that?"

She nodded.

"It certainly is," she replied. "If I don't get the job, it doesn't make any difference. But if I do get it, I want to rush down to Mr. Shubert and tell him just what I think of him!"

A few minutes later, with this little article in mind, I sat down beside Mr. Ziegfeld.

"You've been through any number of these calls," I said. "What's been the funniest thing that ever happened to you?"

The great glorifier tore up two song hits and smiled happily.

"I think that the best one happened down at the New Amsterdam about eight years ago," he mused. "We advertised a call and some of the most beautiful girls you ever looked at showed up and stood in line.

"Among the bunch was one dame who had the dizziest mop of blonde hair you ever saw. Her figure was dumpy, and she was wearing clothes that made her look ridiculous.

"We sent her away, of course, and trotted out a new line of girls. On the end there she was again. We sent her away a second time, but she refused to take no for an answer. A third line...and there she was again.

"After the call was over and I had selected eight of the prettiest girls I ever had, the dizzy dame insisted upon speaking to me. Rather than have any trouble, I told the stage manager to bring her over.

"She stepped right up and looked at me.

"'Do you mean to say,' she cried, 'that you're hiring that bunch of girls and you're letting me go?'

"'That's right,' I told her.

"She wagged a finger under my nose.

"'Well, I only got one thing to say,' she growled. 'You're the rottenest picker of beauties that I ever met!'"

WHEN WE Americans get to traveling, we become strange birds. It seems to be the idea of every tourist that he can buy things in foreign countries far more cheaply than he can in America. In many cases this idea is correct. In just as many more, however, it is a fallacy.

A friend of mine, for instance, recently returned from one of those steamship cruises to Cuba and the Panama Canal. He is one of those birds who tell you how marvelous the ocean looked at sunrise when, as a matter of fact, he never left the ship's bar long enough to see the ocean.

At any rate, he made it a particular point to buy a number of bottles of perfume while in Havana. Not that he knew what he was going to do with all that perfume—but he couldn't resist the temptation to buy something that the salesman told him would cost twice the price in New York.

He bought, as an example, a dozen bottles of perfume that sold in Havana for $20 a bottle. The name of the stuff escapes me, but it comes in one of those tricky little bottles that just look as though they were very expensive.

Returning to New York, he unloaded his $20 perfume, laid it out on his dresser and then went down to the drug store on the corner. This druggist also carried perfumes, and the traveler smilingly inquired the price of the stuff he had so carefully smuggled into New York.

He almost fell through the floor when the druggist informed him that the price was $12 a bottle!

ANOTHER STORY along similar lines is forwarded by Harry Harris. This time it concerns a wealthy American who was vacationing in Trinidad just a few weeks ago. He felt that he needed some lighter clothing. So he stopped into one of the English stores there and asked for a Palm Beach suit.

The salesman knew his stuff. He sold the American one suit and then began to point out the virtues of the goods he handled.

"Why not buy more?" he argued. "You're getting the finest English clothes at a price that is most reasonable. Why not buy several suits more? You'll never have a chance like this again."

As a result of the sales talk about getting three very fine English suits for the price of one in America, the American ordered eight suits to be sent to his stateroom on his boat. After the boat sailed, he opened the large package and smiled with satisfaction as he examined his fine English suits.

GARAGES AWAIT STATE ACTION

Independent garage owners today were awaiting receipt here of final notification for official inspection stations from the State Bureau of Motor Vehicles before continuing inquiry into refusal of certificates for many large operators.

Informed at a conference in Harrisburg yesterday that all permits had not been issued, a committee of the Greater Pittsburgh Garage Owners' Association decided to delay further action until early in January. The committee was informed that all garages denied certificates can reapply by meeting requirements stipulated. President William Fisher today said such garages will seek new inspections. Future action will be dependent on the result of this move, Fisher explained.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To quickly end stubborn coughs due to colds, it is important to soothe the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, saves money, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

GANG RULE WAR SEEN IN DEATHS

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Slaying of two more of Mickey Duffy's followers here yesterday was due to a battle among themselves, police asserted today, following further investigation into the affair.

The latest to meet the usual fate of gangsters were Albert Skale, 25, and Sammy Grossman, 28. Both were suspected of putting their former chieftain on the spot as he slept in an Atlantic City hotel last August, and they had been held in heavy bail pending a further probe of Duffy's slaying.

Quarreling over the right to control the affairs of the Duffy mob, Grossman and Skale shot it out and both died as a result. Two of their followers were wounded in the melee, while all except one man who took part in the shooting were captured, police asserted as they rounded up seven men. True to the gangster's code, however, all of those arrested have refused to talk.

Beating of Prisoners Banned in Detroit

DETROIT, Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Substitute intelligent questioning for beatings" was the advice today to members of the Detroit Police Department by James K. Watkins, commissioner, as part of his plan to remove brutality from law enforcement.

Watkins assembled the department's full force of 288 detectives before him and said any officer who beats a prisoner will be fired summarily on conviction. The meeting was inspired by the increasing number of brutalities reported to police executives.

Rash on Back Caused Water Blisters. Healed by Cuticura.

"During the summer of 1930 a rash came out on my back. It itched so that it caused me to scratch and water blisters formed. They were very red and itchy and I lost my sleep at night on account of the irritation. The trouble lasted about a month and a half.

"My mother advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I purchased some. I washed the affected parts with the Soap and then applied the Ointment. In about two weeks the trouble disappeared. I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Anna J. Boltz, 1946 Kensington St., Harrisburg, Pa., March 5, 1931.

PIE STARS AGAIN AS RUN PRODUCER

THE LATEST BATCH of official National League baseball statistics for 1931, published in today's issue of the Sun-Telegraph, shows again the value of Pie Traynor to the Pittsburgh club. The offensive worth of a player is reflected not in the size of his batting average, but in the number of runs he drives across the plate. Some men with impressive averages fall down woefully when the sacks are occupied and deliver most of their hits at times when they don't count for anything in the production of tallies.

Pie Traynor

But Traynor is of the type that comes through consistently with timely wallops. In spite of one long slump while he was hitting in the clean-up position this year, he was as reliable and as valuable as ever for the season as a whole according to the official records. The changed ball cut down the hitting to such an extent that only four men knocked in 100 or more runs, against 13 in 1930, but the increased effectiveness of the pitchers did not keep Pie from crossing the century line as usual.

THE FOUR PLAYERS driving in 100 or more markers were Chuck Klein with 121, Mr. Ott with 115, Bill Terry with 112, and Traynor with 100. Traynor has not been surpassed in either league in recent years for consistency in this respect. The 1931 campaign was the fifth in succession in which he went beyond the hundred mark in the scoring across the platter.

In fact during his 10 full seasons in fast company, Traynor has failed in only three years to reach the line. His best year was 1928, when he knocked in 124 and his poorest was 1922, his first full season, when his total was 81. In the last five years he has knocked in 1,024. Adding fielding and baserunning ability, hustling spirit and clean habits, Traynor comes close to being the ideal ball player. And yet when they're handing out those most valuable player awards, Pie somehow is always strangely overlooked.

OFFICIAL FIGURES FOR the late National League season make the pennant victory of the Cardinals one of the most convincing on record. Some clubs have won flags by piling long winning streaks at their own grounds to offset mediocre showings on the road, but not so with the Redbirds of 1931.

Gabe Street's world champions proved themselves the class of their circuit by leading the league in percentage of victories both at home and abroad. In St. Louis they won 54 games against 24 defeats for a percentage of 692, and on foreign fields they were not far short of that record, winning 47 and losing 29 for a mark of 618.

EVIDENCE SHOWING THAT much of the "overemphasis" criticism aimed at football was without cause may be produced at the annual meeting of the American Football Coaches Association in New York today. It is understood that a special committee, headed by Lou Little, of Columbia, has prepared statistics to prove that football ranks low among the collegiate activities that take up the students' time. The findings are said to disclose that the gridiron game ranks fifth or sixth as compared with other items apart from actual studies in the matter of time participation.

Babe Ruth

LEADING THE PLAYERS of the American League again this year in bases on balls with 128 to his credit, the fourth time he has drawn 100 or more passes in a single campaign, Babe Ruth has added another chapter to a record that stamps him the most feared hitter in the history of baseball.

Players of the Bill Hamilton type drew many walks because they had keen eyes and refused to swing at bad pitches. But with Ruth it's different. The pitchers aren't trying to fool him. They simply pitch the ball where he can't reach it, fearing that he will knock it out of the lot. Most of the passes he gets are intentional.

THE EXTENT TO which Ruth is walked in comparison with the average player may be judged from the fact that his total of 128 complimentaries in 1931 was more than 50 per cent higher than the top mark for the same season in the National loop. Mel Ott having headed the senior circuit with 80.

Ruth has led his league in bases on balls nine times since the pitchers started to pass him intentionally in 1919. The highest number of times any player ever led the National in that respect was only five, a mark credited to George Burns.

IT IS COMPUTED by Joe Vila that all told, during the 18 years of his American League career, Ruth has drawn 1,550 bases on balls. If those could be placed end to end, it would be found that Babe has walked 26 miles and 740 yards. His biggest season was that of 1923, when he set a major league record of 170 walks. In 1887, the National League had a rule whereby a batter was given credit for a hit on each base on balls that he received. If it had been in force during all of Ruth's career, the Babe's all-time major league batting record up to date would be .467 instead of .349.

THE FOLLOWING WAS received from Louis Maioli, of Renton, Pa.: "Let's give the Italians the credit due them in sports. In the first game it's all Battalino, Canzoneri and Carnera. They are keeping up the sport. Battalino and Canzoneri are two sweet fighters. No backing up from any one.

"And again this year Italian football players, Quatse and Orsi, have made the all-America. How would Cariden, Savaldi, Viviano and Marchisio do for an all-time backfield? Then in baseball we have Lazzeri, Orsatti, Lombardi, Crosetti and others. The Italians have an ace in every sport as well as in painting, singing, composing and sculpture."

IF MAX CAREY has his way and carries his point, the new nickname of the Brooklyn baseball club for the 1932 season, taking the place of the Robins, title no longer applicable, will be the Kings.

In his capacity as manager of the club, Carey has suggested that the Brooklyns be rechristened the Kings. He got the idea from the fact that Ebbets Field, the home of the Brooklyn club, is located in Kings County, N. Y.

Jack McAuliffe

JACK McAULIFFE, who retired undefeated as world lightweight ruler champion in 1893 after holding the title eight years, can't get much of a kick out of watching modern boxers. "Shucks," snorted McAuliffe. "They parade into the rings nowadays wearing silk dressing gowns that cost more than we used to get for a 20-round fight. And if they struggle through 10 measly rounds they think they've done a half-year's work. Sometimes I feel like getting in there in spite of my almost 66 years and giving them a sound spanking. I would, too, only I'm afraid that I'd have to give up smoking my cigars for a fortnight or so. You see, I always liked to be in shape, even when I knew I was going in against a set-up. And let me tell you that I'd like to see some of the so-called set-ups of a generation ago in the ring with some of the latter-day champs. But then," he sighed, "maybe I'm prejudiced."

COMISH SETS HEARING FOR TOMORROW

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Officials of the Motor Square Boxing Club have been notified by Boxing Commissioner Harvey J. Boyle to appear at a meeting of the commission in Philadelphia tomorrow to explain a ticket mixup at its Christmas afternoon show.

The show featured by a bout between Ted Yarosz and Jimmy Belmont, paid off on a gate of approximately $7,200. When the checkup was being made it was discovered that, while the printer's report showed only 1,900 tickets at $1 were printed, close to 2,100 of these pasteboards made their appearance in the ticket collection boxes. Garden men said the extra tickets were counterfeits.

BASS ON CARPET

Two deputy inspectors of the commission also will appear at the meeting. The Garden officials summoned are Joe Marer, general manager; Albert Marer, Joseph Laurence and Attorney C. B. Prichard.

Another matter to be discussed by the commission at this meeting concerns a reported holdup by Benny Bass of the Arena Club in Philadelphia before going through with his bout with Prince Saunders on Christmas. Chairman Harry Farrell will sit in with Commissioner Boyle on the hearing. A third member of the board has not yet been named by Gov. Pinchot.

Between Rounds

Chet Nichols and Louis Severo meet in the main bout of a show in Cleveland Friday night. Jackie Williams and Joey Fondeline are in a preliminary.

Bert Hinck, of Buffalo, manager of Leo Somers, the very good light heavyweight, writes that he is willing to send his man against Tony Galento, the Newark plumber who recently knocked out Georgie Panka here. Somers will spot Galento as much weight as necessary and it will be given out that the pair only Tony goes around 230 pounds.

The following amateur tickets have been reserved to date for the Allegheny Memorial Armory show of the A. A. U.: P. F. Meade, A. Gallo, John Deschene, Steve Maioli, Joe Mazur, A. Zack, Joseph Jaslow, John Maioli and John Bodnar.

Jimmy Stone, of the Inland Fund at Barnsdall, Okla., January 11, and an unbeaten record in Miami, Fla., February 19.

CALIFORNIA BATTLE IS CALLED OFF

GAMES TONIGHT

By H. J. Carlson

Pitt Basketball Coach
Written Exclusively for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 29.—Doubtless Ripley will wonder about a basketball game in California being called off on account of snow, and again Pitt furnishes the copy. The snow famine of 1918 now will be joined with the narrative of the time we were marooned in the Rockies, and other similar privations so different from those of our pioneers.

Dr. H. C. Carlson

Out on the clear the snow in some localities was 15 feet deep while slides at three different places held back trains for two days. Our visit to Reno edified us in the technique of divorce and justifiable exploration of the wide open gaming dens, showed the unusual state of the boys bringing away far more money than originally possessed.

55 FEET IN 55 MINUTES

At one stage of our journey we traveled 55 feet in 55 minutes, but traffic eastward is not moving. The class in transportation surely knows more by this time, even to picking a train with a diner in preference to a fast mail train, which might be through by this time. In addition to scenic beauties we saw numerous Nevada irrigation projects, as well as numerous snowplows.

The story of the weights of the boys shows that the boys lost as much as 10 pounds the first two nights away from Pittsburgh, but have now regained that weight, and everyone is above his normal weight, some up to 11 pounds over, with all tired of eating. A Stanford alumnus, football enthusiast, tells now Stanford plans to have only a graduate school and students entering as juniors, and if this plan is consummated, the athletic consequences must be apparent.

At this writing we do not know if California will play us a game this afternoon, but 20 miles of giant snowsheds, which envelop the tracks like tunnels, are past, and the drifts are down to the window of our car, and we have seen enough of snowy California.

GAME CALLED OFF

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 29.—The scheduled game with the University of Pittsburgh's Golden Cats and the University of California here last night was called off when it was learned that the easterners' railway train was marooned by a snowstorm near Truckee, Cal.

Failure of the Pittsburgh basketball team to arrive resulted in California meeting the Oakland Athens Club in a huge charity game, for which nearly 6,000 tickets had been sold.

Dr. H. C. Carlson, coach of the Panthers, endeavored to arrange a double-header for today, playing California this afternoon, and Stanford University tonight, but definite arrangements had not been completed at a late hour this morning.

The San Francisco Limited, carrying the Pittsburgh team, was blockaded near Truckee by a heavy snow storm and the train was stalled for more than 12 hours. At a late hour, it was reported due here after midnight.

U. S. SKATING TEAMS SET

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Exhibiting their superiority over the best of the nation's fancy skaters for the fifth consecutive time, Maribel Vinson and Roger F. Turner, both of Boston, yesterday won the national singles figure skating championships and the right to lead the United States forces into the Olympic winter games at Lake Placid in February.

The parade of the champions continued with the pairs championship, Beatrix Loughran and Sherwin C. Badger, of New York, winning the title for the third successive year. Thus they also qualified as representatives of the United States in the Olympic Games.

Legion Post Stages Bouts for Charity

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 29.—Six amateur boxing bouts were staged here last night at the Coliseum Rink by the drum and bugle corps of Robert G. Kotouch Post No. 316, American Legion, all proceeds going to an unemployment fund. The summary:

Bill Hunt, of Pittsburgh, was the referee. Earl Crooks and A. A. (Red) Waldvogel were the judges and Attorney M. J. Travis and Walt Lannen were the judges.

KEARNS, CAREY TO CONFER

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—The wheels that promise to grind out a heavyweight title fight for Miami in February, featuring Max Schmeling and Mickey Walker, were idle yesterday awaiting the arrival here today of Jack Kearns, manager of the challenger.

Kearns apparently has made no deal with Madison Square Garden as yet for Walker's services. Bill Carey, president of the Garden, had no statement to make regarding the match until Kearns has agreed to terms.

Carey spent several hours in discussion with Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, who announced that the match would take place in Miami late in February. While awaiting Kearns' arrival, it was said Carey and Jacobs were trying to reach an agreement for a match next summer between Schmeling and either Jack Dempsey or Jack Sharkey.

SCHMELING ENROUTE

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Max Schmeling left Berlin at 12:30 a. m. today for Bremerhaven, where he will embark on the Europa for the United States.

Schmeling, who is to defend his heavyweight title against Mickey Walker in Miami, Fla., late in February, appeared to be in excellent condition. His injured eye no longer troubles him.

The champion exchanged jokes with a host of friends at the train and took an affectionate leave of his mother.

Other travelers were the German tennis stars, Roman Najuch and Hans Nuesslein, who will play in the professional tournament at New York, and Gillis Grafstroem, the Swedish skating champion.

ENGLISH SOCCER SCORES

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Aston Villa defeated Tranmere, United in an English Soccer League first division match at Villa Park yesterday by 3 goals to 0. In a second division game Wolverhampton Wanderers beat Chelsea, Athletic on the former's grounds by 3 goals to 1. Results in third division, southern section, games were: Brighton 1, Queen's Park Rangers 1; Northampton 4, Bristol Rovers 0; Cardiff 3, Distillery 0.

Sues for Million, Charging Balls Battered Home

BEAUMONT, Tex., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—A $1,000,000 damage suit against officials of the Beaumont Texas League Baseball Club and city officials was brought in District Court yesterday by Mrs. Sol Elisha, who alleged her home was battered with baseballs.

The petition recites that Mrs. Elisha was abused in profane language when she lived near the ball park prior to 1922, that baseballs were knocked against her home, breaking windows, and that once she was "laid up" with injuries.

PITT CHESSMEN DEFEATED

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Columbia, City College of New York and Brown were winners in the first round of the annual tournament of the Intercollegiate Chess League yesterday.

Columbia defeated Pittsburgh, 3½ to 1½; City College defeated Brooklyn College, 4-0, and Brown defeated Pennsylvania, 3-1. New York University, seventh entrant, drew a bye.

Pairings for the second and third rounds today follow. Second round—City College vs. Columbia, Brown vs. Brooklyn College, New York University vs. Penn, Pittsburgh a bye. Third round—Brooklyn College vs. New York University, Columbia vs. City College, Penn a bye.

Agua Caliente Track To Reopen Friday

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—J. N. Crofton, president of the Agua Caliente Jockey Club, announced after a conference of track officials last night that racing, discontinued last Wednesday, will be resumed Friday.

RAIN HINDERS GRID DRILLS

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—A heavy rain swept the Green Wave of Tulane indoors and practice for the Rose Tournament game here New Year's Day with the University of Southern California football team yesterday was held within the confines of Pasadena Civic Auditorium.

Coach Bernie Bierman ordered tennis shoes for his squad, and then sent the team through some dummy scrimmage on defense and a signal drill on offense.

On the Trojan campus Coach Howard Jones also kept his Southern Californians out of the rain, giving them only a bit of skull practice, going over Tulane's plays and formations, as well as those designed to upset the Green Wave defense.

In the meantime, the section where the Rose Bowl is located was a roaring torrent. There is no available covering for the gridiron, but pumps were kept going to carry off surplus surface water.

The Southern California team hopes to get the feel of the Rose Bowl sod Thursday, if conditions permit, running through a signal drill of short duration. Tulane also is expected to go to the Rose Bowl the day before the contest.

Sixty-five thousand tickets have been sold, and if the skies clear a day or two before the seventeenth annual classic, a capacity crowd of 85,511 persons is probable.

Three special trains, loaded with more than 600 Tulane rooters, are due to arrive today, and many others already are arriving by automobile.

WILSON BEATS GILLIGAN

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Jimmy Duggan, Pittsburgh heavyweight, gave away nine and a half pounds to Jackie Wilson, amateur pugilist, in the six-round main bout here last night and after six slashing rounds heard the referee's decision go to Wilson after the judges disagreed.

Fight Results

REPORT CLEARS FOOTBALL

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Critics who have been saying that football is "overemphasized" at the colleges should turn their attention debating, student publications or dramatics.

A special committee headed by Lou Little, Columbia coach, was chosen a year ago to study the question of overemphasis and to report on the time spent by football players at the game. Little made his report to the annual meeting of the football coaches this morning, and he revealed that a college student who plays football spends on an average of 109 hours a year at the game.

Students who engage in college debating spend 111 hours; crewmen use 186 hours; student editors spend 241 hours at their work, while those who rehearse and take part in dramatic productions spend 132 hours on the stage, according to Little's figures.

100 COLLEGES QUESTIONED

Four hundred colleges were questioned and as a result the committee headed by Little discovered that as far as actual time spent on extra-curriculum activities, football ranks but sixth in the list.

These figures are based on time spent during the season. The committee reported that as far as time spent out of season was concerned football ranked fourteenth.

"Only two sports," the report continued, "occupy less time out of season than football. Baseball

TRAYNOR PICKED ON STAR TEAM

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 29.—(AP.)—An all-star major league baseball team, chosen by 229 members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, is made up of eight American League and two National League players.

Al Simmons, Philadelphia Athletics, left field; Earl Averill, of Cleveland, center field; Babe Ruth, of the New York Yankees, right field; Harold Traynor, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, third base; Joe Cronin, of Washington, shortstop; Frankie Frisch, of the St. Louis Cardinals, second base; Lou Gehrig, of the New York Yankees, first base; Mickey Cochrane, of the Philadelphia Athletics, catcher; Robert M. Grove and George Earnshaw, both of the Athletics, pitchers.

Grove's magnificent pitching during 1931, the News said, won him the distinction of being the only unanimous choice. Only once before in the history of this particular poll has a player been chosen unanimously, that honor falling to Mickey Cochrane, Grove's batterymate, in 1930.

FIGURES SHOW BALL LESS LIVELY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

A quiet, but striking piece of testimony relative to the liveliness of the baseball used in the National League this year as compared with the 1930 rocket is contained in the special official batting records given out for publication today.

Chuck Klein

In the 1930 season no less than 17 players batted in 100 or more runs! This year only four players were able to drive over 100 tallies! The disparity in the figures says in no uncertain language that the ball makers took plenty of "rabbit" out of the sphere.

Capt. Pie Traynor, of the Pirates, although he fell a bit below the .300 mark in hitting in the 1931 season, is eloquently portrayed as one of the best "clinch" batters in the league, in the official sumup. Pie is one of the select four who smacked 100 runners over. The others are Chuck Klein, of the Phillies, who led with 121; Melvin Ott, of the Giants, with 115, and Bill Terry, of the Giants, with 112. Pie recorded 103.

Klein led the league in slugging with a percentage of .384. Ott drew the most bases on balls, 80. Nick Cullop, of the Reds, struck out the most times, 86. Vincent Barton, of the Cubs, was hit most often by pitchers, nine times. Among the regular players, Eddie Roush, of the Reds, struck out the fewest number of times, five in 101 games.

The questionnaire sent to the 400 colleges was an elaborate one, which considered every activity in which a college student takes part. It also considered the question of spring practice. One hundred and fifty-two coaches said they were in favor of it; 20 said they were for it with conditions while 43 were against it.

The question of a training table also caused a wide divergence, with 92 coaches or graduate managers voting "yes," 93 said "no" and 28 favored the training table if the expense was borne by the players.

CAPTAINS ANSWER

One of the most interesting features of the report were the answers of 273 football captains to a set of 20 questions.

As to overemphasis 179 said there was none, 23 said there was and 54 said "in some places." Reasons for playing football disclosed that 44 played "because I love it," 98 for educational reasons; "Game builds character," "football is a man-builder," "preparation for life."

Only three did not like the game and two frankly responded: "I played for a scholarship."

OFFICIALS CONFER

Physical directors from the country's leading schools held their own private meeting yesterday. They will have another session today. At another hotel Walter Okeson, high commissioner of the Eastern Association for the Selection of Football Officials, held court.

The annual brown derby banquet tonight will conclude the meeting of coaches.

Dr. Marvin (Mal) Stevens, head coach of Yale University, was slated to succeed Chick Meehan as president of the Coaches' Association. It was understood his election today merely would be a formality.

More than 200 leaders in school and college sports heard James G. Blaine, of Buffalo, report that four districts had contributed $675,000 from athletic contests to the unemployed fund.

Hogan Is Released After Cafe Brawl

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 29.—(INS.)—Frank (Shanty) Hogan, star catcher of the New York Giants, faced Judge James Counihan, an ardent baseball fan, in District Court yesterday. Inasmuch as it was Hogan's first appearance and inasmuch as he paid for glass broken in a North Cambridge cafe scuffle, Shanty had charges against him of intoxication and glass-breaking placed on file by the "bench umpire."

HOW A GRIDDER GOT HUNGRY

By JESS CARVER

Football season is over and done with, except for the Rose Bowl game in Pasadena and the East-West contest in San Francisco, New Year's, but there is a football yarn that just came to light yesterday. It was related by A. W. McMillan, the gent who has his phiz on his Christmas cards and one of our best grid officials.

Mac was the referee of the Wash-Jeff - West Virginia Wesleyan game, the inaugural tussle for both elevens, at Washington this fall. Wash-Jeff was finding the Bob Kitties plenty tough, but, near the end of the first half, engineered a drive that eventually carried the ball to the five-yard line.

Most of the attack had been aimed at a big Wesleyan tackle. When the Presidents reached the five-yard mark, Wesleyan took time out, and this big tackle and Cliff Battles, the crack Wesleyan halfback, came over to Mac. Battles asked how much time remained, and McMillan, referring to Field Judge Al Slack, told him that three minutes of play remained.

"Gosh!" moaned the tackle, "but I'm hungry! I could eat the ball."

Battles turned on him with a look of withering scorn and then cracked to the officials:

"What a swell ball club I'm playing on. Here we are on the goal line, and this guy has to squawk about being hungry."

The Tipoff

Walter Winchell's crack about the referee who penalized a certain team to defeat, which caused no small furore about the country a few weeks back, came in for a going-over at a meeting of the officials and coaches in New York Sunday, which officially opened the annual confab of the mentors.

Local men who attended the session reported that it generally was agreed that the game Winchell meant was the Southern California-Notre Dame game — and that there were some fast ones called.

It also was pretty authoritatively established that two of the men on the game had words and took cracks at each other in the dressing room after the tussle.

If you don't know it—Elmer Layden, at Duquesne, draws as big a pay check as Jock Sutherland does at Pitt. Frank Lane will work the Pitt-Notre Dame basketball game here with Cal Botkiss. Mrs. Lane, who was Miss Sportes of 1930, will accompany him. . . . Chick Davies is getting gray worrying over the opening game ahead of his Dukes with Grove City. . . . Bob Thorn already gray, is worrying himself bald over the same game. . . . Clarence Gipendish, who is giving a New Year's Eve party, was seen buying dog biscuits yesterday . . . two and two still make four, and you'd better always play that second-hand low.

GENEVA BEATS ST. THOMAS

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—With a masterful exhibition of defensive and offensive prowess that stamped the Western Pennsylvanians as a contender for eastern intercollegiate basketball honors, Geneva College mowed down St. Thomas College here last night, 40 to 18.

After the opening minutes of play, the Purple and White machine, which displayed remarkable form only a week ago in its 50-to-15 conquest of South Jersey Law School, fell to pieces before the highly-skilled Geneva aggregation. Geneva held a 15-point lead at the end of the first half, which terminated with the score 23 to 8. Aultman, former Ohio State University star, and Capt. Montgomery, were the stars in the Geneva lineup. The lineup:

R. G. MORRISON RALLIES, WINS

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—Favorites advanced in the opening round of the annual mid-winter golf tournament here yesterday, but some of them had narrow escapes.

Dick Wilson, of Southern Pines, the medalist, stood 4 down to John D. Smith, of New York, at the turn, but he came back to make the count even on the seventeenth, after being trapped, and then sank an 18-foot putt to win the eighteenth hole, and the match 1 up.

George T. Dunlap, Jr., of New York, the defending champion, had a comparatively easy victory over John D. Chapman, of Greenwich, Conn., United States senior champion, whom he defeated, 4 and 3.

One of the most sensational battles of the day was staged by John S. Chapman, of New York, who lost to R. G. Morrison, of Pittsburgh, on the twentieth hole. Chapman squared the match after being 5 down, with six to go, only to lose 1 up.

Francis T. Keating, of New York, defeated C. E. Prodie, of Chicago, 1 up; Halbert J. Blue, of Aberdeen, N. C., eliminated Tom Rudel, of Montreal, 1 up; Philip S. P. Randolph, of Hempstead, L. I., won over C. B. S. Marr, of Carnoustie, Scotland, 6 and 4, and E. D. Thomson, of Springfield, Mass., advanced by virtue of a 3 and 2 victory over Donald Parson, of Youngstown, O.

Football Officials Honor Local Men

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—W. Don Harrison, athletic director at Pitt, was elected secretary-treasurer of the Eastern Association for the Selection of Football Officials, and Clarence G. (Buddy) Overend, of Carnegie Tech, was named a director of the body at the closing meeting here yesterday.

Maj. Phil Fleming, graduate manager of athletics at West Point, was elected president, and Cy Thurston, of Syracuse, vice president.

DETROIT, Dec. 29.—The Detroit Olympics will be out to retain their hold on second place, and the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets will strive to make up some of the ground lost during a fortnight of idleness when these International League hockey rivals clash here tonight.

London, tied with the locals for the runner-up berth, also is in action tonight, and in view of the fast pace that London has been setting recently, the Olympics probably will have to win to keep from dropping into the third notch.

JACKETS IN TOP FORM

The relative positions of Detroit and Pittsburgh in the league standings would indicate that the locals should experience little trouble in turning back the Steel City skaters, but the Olympics' edge is largely due to the fact that they have played three more games than have the Pittsburghers. The locals had to stage a great rally to gain a tie the last time they were hosts to Pittsburgh.

The visitors are in better condition to put up a strong argument than at any time in recent weeks, Charley Reid, coach of the Pittsburgh squad, said today. Gordy Fraser and Art Berlett, big defense aces who have been out with injuries, are reported back in top condition, and Earl Miller, lanky center who has been handicapped with a hip injury, also is ready to take his place in the starting lineup.

Romnes, the Blackhawks' lineman, who was traded to the Jackets for Ingram last night, may start at one of the wings.

GILLIE TO PLAY

Local fans have planned a big ovation for Farrand Gillie, veteran left wing, who recently turned down an opportunity to advance into the National League in order that he might remain with the local International League team. The probable lineup:

Pittsburgh	Pos.	Detroit
Cox	G	Vezina
Fraser	D	Richardson
Berlett	D	Peters
Miller	C	Bay
Arbour	W	Goldsworthy
Romnes	W	Machado

INGRAM TRADED

Frank Ingram, right wing of the Yellow Jackets, has been traded to the Chicago Blackhawks, of the National League, in exchange for Romnes, Windy City lineman. Ingram left immediately for Chicago to join his new club, while Romnes has been ordered to report to Coach Charley Reid, of the Jackets, in Detroit tonight, where he will be given a chance to show his skill.

Sport Vignettes

Reports from New York say the date has not been fixed for the Schmeling-Walker title fight in Miami . . . Are they sure they mean the date and not the fight? . . . Caleb (Socko) McCarey, Pirates' clubhouse boy, is in St. Joseph's Hospital for an appendicitis operation, which has been postponed until he recovers from a cold . . . St. Louis has a boxing promoter with the classy name of Eddie Vandeventer, who used to fight as Kid Bandy . . . The tipoff on this wrestling business is that Jim Londos was able to defend his title 150 times this year, an average of three times a week . . . Is it a strenuous sport or is it a racket? . . . You be the judge.

Bill McKechnie must be planning to lefthand the National League to death next season. . . . In addition to Ed Brandt, Tom Zachary and Willie Sherdel, his veterans, he will have a new southpaw in Frank Coleman, who stands 6 feet 2 inches and weighs some 200 pounds and has been doing a lot of swell pitching in the minors since making good for Howard College in the South. . . . Bob Olin, the New York boxer, who is going well in the N. B. A. light-heavyweight tournament, is a security salesman on the side. . . . Just a big sock and bond man, as it were.

The deadest period in the year for sports is over the Christmas holidays. . . . The college and school athletes are on vacation and there isn't much doing otherwise, and everybody's broke and couldn't attend, anyway. . . . Then comes the deluge of all manner of indoor sports until the spring brings its baseball, golf, tennis, track, etc. . . . And what a multitude of events that "etc." covers!

SOCCER FIELD PLANNED FOR SOUTH PARK

By TOM BIRKS

Now that South Park is the newly accepted venue for the big soccer games, local fans may be interested to hear that if present plans develop, a new grounds near to the golf course will be provided for next year.

Director Paul B. Riis, of the county parks, is highly gratified with the large crowds which have attended the games. For the foreign-born, American-born game, some 800 automobiles wended their way past the buffalo enclosure and parked for the soccer game.

SWITCH-DOUGLAS CLASH

When Riis provided the facilities for the Curry Soccer Club's home games, he little thought the game would draw the crowds that have attended. The present field needs some improvements, so instead of making the necessary changes, a new field is planned.

On Friday, at Westinghouse High School field, Union Switch and Clan Douglas meet in the semi-final round of the West Penn Cup. Inasmuch as the clubs also are leading the Central League, bitter rivalry is anticipated. Switch probably will enter the final round for the first time.

MORGAN AT CLEVELAND

Douglas followers are worried regarding the goal-scoring end of the Douglas machine. When Moremen was acquired, it was thought the troubles from this angle were eliminated. However, his poor display in the Westinghouse game convinced Frank Mincher that Moir still is his best bet.

On Sunday, Morgan travels to Cleveland to meet the Slavia-Rosenbloom outfit in the first round of the National Cup. The Millers Run outfit is showing many weak spots, especially in the front line.

STOCK MARKET PUSHES UP ON BROAD FRONT

List Takes on Rosier Hue After Sinking Near Lows; Shares Rise 1 to 3 Points

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(AP)—The stock market took a rosier hue today, after sinking close to the bear market lows of December 17.

The recent pressure of tax selling eased, and prices pushed up 1 to 3 points over a fairly extensive front. The trading season appeared to have been started a bit earlier than usual.

Rails and utilities made notable gains. Issues up 2 to 5 points, etc., New York Central, Santa Fe, Norfolk and Western, Union Pacific, American Telephone, North American, Consolidated Gas, American Water Works, Allied Chemical, United States Industrial Alcohol, Air Reduction, Du Pont, United States Steel, Eastman Kodak, Woolworth, National Biscuit and others. Auburn was sent up 8 points. Gains of a point or so appeared throughout the list, and trading grew fairly lively on the advance.

An uptrend, shaky in places at the end of the year, is regarded with high favor by many investment trusts and holding companies, as it enables them, December 31 reports, which they give the market value of their holdings as of that date. In the past two years, however, the uptrend began the second day before the end of the year, rather than the third day as at present. The market made substantial gains in the first two trading days of 1930 and registered sweeping gains in the last two days of 1929.

The fact that the market met support after coming close to the December 17 bear market lows provided considerable encouragement. Some market theorists would regard such support at those levels as an indication that the bottom has been reached. The recording of a new average low in the final week of the year would be unusual, to say the least, in view of most past experience.

Railroad shares were helped by a hope that a basis for settling quarrels over the prospective wage agreement of a wage reduction as the Railway Brotherhood heads met in Chicago to consider the appointment of a committee to take up the matter decisively with a committee of railheads.

The money market showed further signs of year-end firmness, although call loans again renewed at 3 per cent. The rate went up to 4 per cent a year ago. The Federal Reserve was less actively buying acceptances today.

WHEAT PRICES ADVANCE

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Grain prices tended upward early today, responsive to a steadier tone in securities and to Argentine reports of a wet harvest. Unseasonable weather for United States winter wheat counted also as a bullish factor. Opening unchanged to ¼c up, wheat afterward rose further. Corn started at ¼c to ⅛c advance and subsequently held near the initial range.

A circumstance pointing in the direction of higher prices was that the amount of wheat on ocean passage to importing countries had been reduced to only enough for a few weeks' supply. Notice was also taken of continued scantiness of domestic receipts of wheat, the principal primary markets today showing arrivals of far less than half as much as a year ago. There were Illinois reports, too, that considerable wheat was so badly infested with Hessian fly that some of the grain was turning yellow.

Christmas Money Returning to Banks

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Reports received by New York banks Monday, based on the first full day of bank operations since the Christmas holiday, indicated that the flow of Christmas money back to the banks was proceeding at normal rate after its temporary withdrawal.

About $300,000,000 it was estimated was withdrawn from the banks of the country for use as cash gifts. Normally, two to three weeks elapse before this money again finds its way back to banks.

Approximately $995,000,000 it was estimated, will be paid in interest and dividends during January.

Forbes

Mismanagement Charges Unjust in Many Cases

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

IS IT FAIR to accept [illegible] every business organization which has had to cut or suspend dividends, pass bank which has had to close, every enterprise whose securities have shrunk [illegible] in market value, have been mismanaged?

Is it [illegible] sell [illegible] stocks during the current year [illegible] Yes [illegible] ing [illegible] No.

SUPPOSE ALL over the country there has been a tidal wave of liquidation by banks, especially small banks, as ever since the panic. Security values would have been inordinately demoralized.

The slumping of the market of all collateral held against loans which became undermargined would have precipitated an overwhelming number of business failures and precipitated wreck and ruin of countless communities. Such forced liquidation would have stamped [illegible] inadequate prosperity.

IT MAY BE all very well for New York, Chicago and other metropolitan banks to insist that their borrowers reduce loans, since by such banks were usually well-secured by readily marketable collateral or in case of commercial loans by arrangements affording the banks good security.

Most metropolitan banks showed, however, no mercy whatsoever. If loans for additional collateral or for a reducing of the loan could not be met the banks did not hesitate to start [illegible] to sell-out.

BUT OUTSIDE of our large cities banking is conducted in a somewhat different basis. For one thing the average borrower is not usually in a position to run up bonds or stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Commercial credit accommodation is extended on a more personal basis.

Assets therefore are on the whole, slower than those of hundred-million and billion-dollar metropolitan banks.

HOW COULD country bankers be expected to foresee how far things would go in the wrong direction throughout this continent and throughout the world? Is it not true that the very ablest of our bankers as well as our foremost men of affairs—to say nothing of President Hoover himself—failed completely to read the future aright?

ARE BUSINESS executives, country bankers and others who exercised patience and leniency to be branded as wholly unfit for their jobs simply because the business recession [illegible] worldwide and descended to totally unexpected depths?

Frankly, I would rather be among those who strove heroically to keep things going on an even keel—at what turned out to be heavy cost—than among those who, taking advantage of the dire misfortunes of others, raked rich as willing stocks short on an unconscionable scale.

Let's be tolerant rather than censorious in our judgment of those who conscientiously sought to do their best but found the unprecedentedly ruinous conditions too much for them.

Court Asks Prompt Ruling on Rail Mergers

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THAT THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE Commission has some difficult decisions to make was indicated yesterday when a United States District Court in Philadelphia indefinitely postponed the divestment case against the Pennsylvania Railroad and urged the commission to make a final decision on railroad mergers as quickly as possible.

The suit was brought by the commission. It asked that the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Pennsylvania Company, a subsidiary, be ordered to dispose of holdings of stock in the Wabash and Lehigh Valley Railroads. Under the commission railroad consolidation plan, the eastern trunk line territory would be divided between five systems. Wabash and Lehigh would form the fifth system, along with Norfolk and Western, Seaboard Air Line and several smaller roads.

Last January the leading eastern systems, the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, New York Central and Chesapeake and Ohio, proposed a fourway division of the eastern lines among themselves. Under this plan Pennsylvania would retain ownership of the Wabash, but would sell the Lehigh Valley to the system to be built around the Chesapeake and Ohio and the Nickel Plate. It would retain trackage rights over parts of the Lehigh Valley.

Reasons for Postponement

IN POSTPONING THE CASE against the Pennsylvania, the court undoubtedly recognized the dangers of coming to a hasty decision. Obviously it would be wrong to order the Pennsylvania to dispose of its Wabash holdings until the commission has taken final action on the four system consolidation plan which would allow the stock to be retained. It would be equally wrong to force the sale of the Lehigh Valley stock until the commission has reached a definite decision on the question of what trunk line should be allowed to buy it.

The drastic declines in the prices of railroad stocks have given the commission a new angle to consider in the railroad merger case. Originally it had only to look at the problem from the standpoint of building strong systems which would best serve the public in an economical manner without entirely destroying competition. At present, however, the commission has to consider the effects of forcing the leading railroads to sell holdings of stock in other lines at depression prices while these holdings were bought at bull market levels. The commission has to decide whether or not it will be desirable to force the leading railroads to weaken their financial positions by taking staggering losses on their security holdings.

Lancasters Begin Experience On Sugar Plantation In Porto Rico

CHAPTER X

Westlynne united in giving the Lancasters a farewell party. Frances Carlisle was there, but not Dirk; neither of the Waterfords were present, of course; nor was Harry Carter, who had gone abroad to join his wife. But Della and Mort were hosts and there were people down from town as well as the other Westlynners; and the Mannings, who had returned and, with cheers of gratitude, were moving into their house a day or so after the Lancasters sailed. "A roof and no rent," said Manning, thankfully. "Looks pretty good to me as long as you won't buy the shack."

"I couldn't," responded Bill gaily. "It's a dog-kennel, which is less a city."

Mr. Burton said: "You needn't explain, Sam. I talked to me. Perhaps you're being sensible. There'll be a job for you when you come back. A house to do and want it." He added, to Sam: "It's just as well—we have to cut down expenses and it will take more than personality to sell even gilt-edged bonds for a while." He hinted that he understood that stocks—with the average of eighteen-thousand-dollars-per-bond buyer—had been reduced to three and would go lower.

Westlynne was united in proclaiming that the Lancasters had gone headlong to snakes, malaria and love knows what, said Westlynne, and Bill was doing so well. Could it be true he dropped all he had and more in the market? Well, Godspeed and we'll miss them, said Westlynne.

AUTOMOBILES SOLD

Mort said thoughtfully: "You may be right. I don't know." and Della said: alone with Nevis: "I don't know what it's all about but I seem to perceive monkey wrenches. Well, you know what you're doing. I'm for you."

Mort and Della, Sam Burton and Daisy Howard, who had come from Nevis' home town to New York and within a few months had succeeded in reducing Sam to an abject amorphous mass of sentimentality, saw them off on one of the very de luxe boats. The sugar company had provided passage but Bill had stated firmly: "Not so hot. Or rather, too hot. Over the kitchen. We'll check what little cash we have left into a really decent cabin and bath."

"It's for such a short time," expostulated Nevis.

"It doesn't matter. Why travel like rattle. Blow the last cent, see me and arrive in comfort and style. Not knowing what's ahead of us I propose to provide some really Ritz-Carlton baked funeral meats," said Bill.

Their furniture was stored, the cars sold for a couple of popular songs and the house was in the hands of its original owners. Nevis cried a little wandering about it for the last time. Hari and Kari had returned to whatever was their mysterious private life. The radio had been sold—to Hari, no less, a dicker having been made with him which involved the radio and certain wages due. Bill had a few hundreds in the bank and the one bond he had managed to buy, somewhat depreciated in value. Sam presented them with a bottle of champagne. "There's only one way," said Sam, "to drown sweet sorrow."

The passage was rough. People were magnificently sick. Not Bill, who at all times enjoyed superb health and a sense of balance, nor Nevis, living to the comparative privacy of their family life, entertaining or embarrassing, according to your point of view. Resident Americans recognizable by their curious complexions and their Palm Beach suits and their languors, and visiting Americans equally recognizable by their briskness, their desire to spend money, their incessant chatter and their smart clothes. Bill ran into a classmate and his wife who were honeymooning. "Oh," said the wife fluently, "so you're going to live here. How perfectly fascinating. How I envy you."

Bill said: "You must," without intention. Frank Garfield had inherited a couple million dollars and on their return from the West Indies he and his wife would move into a Park Avenue duplex.

Palm trees, said Nevis as they went to the boat, aren't they marvelous. I wonder if I'll ever tire of them."

The boat took them to Ponce. Bill said: "I understand there's a swell motor road from San Juan to Ponce. . . we'll have to take the trip some day."

In Ponce there were more conferences with the company representatives and a day or two in the town in the blue painted, arcaded stairway house, maintained by the company for distinguished guests and arriving employes. There, with the attendant offices of a slim, non-English-speaking man of all work, Nevis and Bill lived for a few days. Nevis was perfectly happy. Life seemed to her pretty simple in the tropics. Bill, meeting some of his fellow employes, reported them good guys. And grapefruit was a dream and alcadados a staple of diet and pineapples something too good to be true. There was a serious shortage of such accustomed articles as cream and the like but it didn't matter, did it? And the mosquito nets over the beds which Nevis had found delightful at first sight proved more useful than ornamental. And it was very hot.

The bathroom of the guest house was an enormous affair with a large sunken bath. "How marvelous," said Nevis. Only, there wasn't any hot water.

In a company automobile they drove five miles out to their new abode on the sugar plantation and inspected it. A gray house on stilts, completely unfurnished. Bill thought they furnished it for us," gasped Nevis, conscious of the lack of housekeeping facilities they had brought from New York. "I did too," said Bill blankly. They used to furnish the houses for employes, explained the representative. No longer, however. He added that milk and light and rent were free and seemed to think it quite enough.

So Nevis shopped, with the friendly wife of the plantation manager. Furniture in Ponce cost, she discovered, a small fortune. She had checked out most of Bill's hundreds, deposited in a San Juan bank, for very inferior wicker.

"Don't forget a water cooler," advised Mrs. Jones, the manager's wife. "You must boil all your drinking water, you know."

They moved into the house on stilts. In front of it lay a tangle of undergrowth. Behind it banana trees, including the apple banana, and likewise mangoes and limes and a bush of jassamine. In front, too, there was a white road . . . bordered on either side by coconut palms. Along the road the ox-carts plodded, the sides of the patient creatures often running red.

"Oh," said Nevis, in horror, and on the horns of the lead animal a slim brown lad, a red flower behind his ear, and a sharp steel-pointed stick in his hand. Beyond the road the fields on fields of cane, delicately green, and the low, lovely mountains, misty blue.

There were half a dozen families on the plantation, and a native quarter . . . unspeakably filthy. There was a native store, a tienda, at which one could not possibly find anything one wanted. A boy came around mornings for orders for food and ice and drove into Ponce to get it. The milk arrived, in your own scrubbed cans, on the porch in the early morning. Sleepily Nevis would take in the cans by moonlight.

"I simply must get a servant," she told Mrs. Jones, who shrugged and said, "Well, it isn't easy."

It was a month before a very lackadaisical native girl, clad in a shift, and smoking large cigars, could be persuaded to come and clean vegetables, get a midday dinner of sorts, dust the house and do the washing, primitively squatted at a wash tub under the house.

Nevis' feet hurt. Her eyes ached from the sun. She was afraid of the harmless bright lizards which ran all over the walls. "They're assets," Mrs. Jones reassured her, thinking of her twenty years in the tropics, a lean woman, very sallow, with tired eyes, "they eat mosquitoes and things."

"They may be assets to you, but they're liabilities to me," responded Nevis, but was only forced to change her opinion during an epidemic of flying ants, which came sailing through the screens, shed their wings all over the place and developed into repulsive, worm-like creatures which busily ate up all your furniture. "Sure," said Nevis' next-door-neighbor, "the other day I put my hand on my ice box door and went right through it, it's a shell inside. I hadn't the least idea!"

Bill's duties appeared to be rising at five o'clock and riding over the acres of plantation with the assistant to the manager. He said, the first night to Nevis: "Don't ask me to sit down, I can't."

He bought linen riding breeches and puttees. He said, after they had been there a month or more: "I haven't learned much. As far as engineering is concerned, there isn't any use trying to use what little knowledge I still have here. Not unless we are transferred to the factory end of the job over near Mayaguez. All this job is, is riding about a thousand miles for twelve hours a day. They call it inspection. Well, I found two stills and one man cut up with a machete. There's excitement to it there never was in bonds."

He found more when he was instructed in the vaccination of bulls against anthrax, and without rubber gloves and when, the deed once done, he had to stand by with camphor and oil to bring one of the beasts to, in case he was knocked out.

Socially, wrote Nevis to Della, this place is a washout. Not that it matters.

There were three or four homesick Southern boys, bachelors, on the plantation; and some married men with whose wives Nevis had nothing in common. And Mrs. Jones, in the big house, a rock in time of trouble, helping in every possible way, even to offering Nevis her bath tub on any occasion when a hot bath deemed desirable. For although Nevis' house contained a bathroom and a shower room, as well, the latter, including any quantity of spiders as large as tea cups, there was no hot water. It was of a sickly tepid temperature most of the time, the cistern being warmed by the sun.

Nevis was wrong. Socially—socially speaking, the little settlement was bound by laws which would have made Ward McAllister's look feeble. People were ranked according to position and wages; which put Bill at the very bottom of the scale of caste, normally speaking. But there was a catch in it. Bill had been sent down through the influence of one of the most important men in the sugar industry, a heavy stockholder and an executive of the great New York company of which this happened to be a subsidiary. Which put Bill—and Nevis—at the top of the scale and sent them to the company dinner in Ponce, given in honor of some New York executives traveling on inspection. "Inspection," said Bill, who by now knew his sugar. "What a darned comic joke!"

The married ladies, floppy from the heat and sloppy from the same reason or perhaps by nature, paid calls. Nevis returned them, bored to death. Della sent down books and magazines and the day the mails came in was more than red letter, it was illuminated in gold and scarlet. They had Christmas at the Jones', a party of all of the American settlement, including the bachelors, and going home Bill fell into an irrigation ditch. He said, ruefully, the next morning, holding a head as big as Grand Central Station: "I thought I could carry Prohibition liquor. But when it comes to champagne, sweet, and laced with native rum, I am as the child unborn in my capacity."

Synopsis

Nevis and Bill Lancaster were supremely happy until Bill became successful selling bonds and they started living beyond their means. Nevis sees little of him and she longs for the simple life they led when first married. Then Bill meets Olive Blanchard who tries in vain to alienate his affections. Although Bill sees much of Olive and enjoys her company, he loves Nevis. Nevis however believes the affair is serious when she reads a poem which Olive sent to Bill. Piqued, she accepts the attentions of Harry Carter, a prominent architect. Bill is jealous, but when Nevis offers to give up Carter if he does Olive, he refuses. Their relations become strained. Carter tells Nevis he loves her and cannot go on without her. Nevis is stunned when Bill tells her their friends, Fluff and Les Waterford, are separating. Nevis, picturing the same end for Bill and herself, is perturbed. Bill realizes Nevis still cares for him when she asks him to take her away. Bill loses heavily in the stock market crash. Nevis decides to go to Porto Rico with Bill when he is offered a job on a sugar plantation.

An Old Problem

By Tuthill

I SUPPOSE WE OUGHT TO THINK UP SOME GOOD RESOLUTIONS FOR 1932. I WAS AWAKE A LONG TIME LAST NIGHT TRYING TO DECIDE ON SOME VERY BAD FAULT THAT SHOULD BE OVERCOME
INSTEAD OF GIVING UP SMOKING THIS YEAR I DECIDED TO TRY SOMETHING ELSE FOR A CHANGE
I'LL ADMIT I LOSE MY TEMPER NOW AND THEN, BUT IT SEEMS SORT OF SILLY TO RESOLVE THAT YOU'LL JUST SAY NOTHING WHEN OTHERS TRY TO WALK ALL OVER YOU
I THOUGHT OF MAKING ANOTHER STAB AT TRYING TO GET ALONG WITH THE NEIGHBORS BUT THEY'D GET WIND OF IT AND YOU KNOW WHAT WOULD HAPPEN
I TOO CONSIDERED A RESOLUTION ABOUT THE NEIGHBORS, BUT REALIZED HOW FOOLISH IT SEEMED AFTER WONDERING HOW MANY OF THESE WOMEN WOULD EVEN DREAM OF RESOLVING TO GET ALONG WITH ME, IMAGINE!
WE USUALLY MAKE SOME SORT OF RESOLUTION ABOUT ARGUING BUT THIS YEAR I'M IN FAVOR OF SOMETHING — WELL, REAL PRACTICAL
IT'S SO EASY TO GET IN A RUT IN MAKING RESOLUTIONS. YEAR AFTER YEAR WE USE THE SAME OLD TIRESOME SUBJECTS. A THING LIKE THAT COULD GET A PERSON SO THEIR BIGGEST FAULT WOULD BE IN MAKING RESOLUTIONS.
ABSOLUTELY! THERE'S TWO SIDES TO EVERYTHING! ONE YEAR I DECIDED TO GIVE UP WORRYING, AND THEN WORRIED WORSE THAN EVER FOR FEAR I'D FORGET THE RESOLUTION.

A Hopeful Attitude

The Willingness of the Building Trades Workers to Confer With the Employers Is Encouraging.

The Building Trades Employers' Association has asked their employes to take a wage cut of 25 per cent, effective January 1, notwithstanding that most of the wage contracts with the 30 unions involved still have from two to 18 months to run.

The Pittsburgh Building Trades Council, representing the workers, has refused to accept the reduction.

The situation would have unpleasant possibilities but for the fact that both sides to the controversy have expressed willingness to talk it over further.

This is a case in which arbitration should be resorted to, and it is reassuring to the public to know that that is the course which probably will be followed.

New Calendars will be in order in a few days.

It may not be long until it will be unnecessary to get a new one at the end of each year.

The movement to simplify and standardize the arrangement of the months so that the calendar for one year will be precisely like that for another is gaining headway.

The Journal of Calendar Reform publishes in its December issue indorsements of the movement from two more Pittsburghers—Robert Boreman, professor of physics at Carnegie Institute of Technology, and B. W. Tennant, banker.

They are additions to a list of local indorsers which includes such well known Pittsburghers as A. W. Robertson, W. S. Brotzman, Charles D. Armstrong, Sidney F. Heckert and E. S. Bayard.

Advocates of calendar reform are to be found among the foremost business and professional men not only in Pittsburgh but in every other part of the civilized world.

The calendar printers would suffer by the change, but everybody else would benefit.

Two thousand years ago February was robbed of some of its days in order to lengthen the months named in honor of Julius and Augustus Caesar. This procedure, taken to satisfy the vanity of the Romans, has caused all mankind more or less inconvenience ever since. It is one of the reasons why a new calendar must be hung up next Friday. The movements of the heavenly bodies have nothing whatever to do with the arrangement of the months and weeks.

Abundant Parking Space

Our Present Facilities, Now More Than Adequate, Are Not Likely to Continue So Indefinitely.

Harvard University engineering students who have been studying the parking problem in 15 of the largest cities report that Pittsburgh has more off-street space for automobiles than any of the others.

Their report recalls the protest of some of the operators of downtown parking lots and garages against the city's competing with them in business by letting autos be parked for a small fee on the river front.

With more space available than is used, part at least of the water front might well be converted into a park.

However, we will not continue indefinitely to have so much parking space. Some of the downtown lots now used for the storage of automobiles are too valuable to remain vacant long.

"Chicken a la King"

There Is No Good Reason Why Rabbit Meat Should Be Given a False Name.

Informed that promoters of backyard rabbit raising are advertising that they plan to open canneries for the purpose of putting up rabbit meat for sale as "chicken a la king," the State Pure Foods Bureau at Harrisburg warns that it will not be tolerated.

It is gratifying to see the proposal vetoed so promptly.

The people have become accustomed to false names for some commodities and are not deceived by them. "Hudson seal" has become a standard name for muskrat fur. Pike-perch are sold in Pennsylvania fish markets as "salmon." But misnomers are undesirable even though they do not deceive.

The Department of Commerce recommended several years ago that dogfish or young sharks be sold under the name of "grayfish." They are good to eat, but people will have nothing to do with them if they are called by their right names. "Grayfish" was a new name especially devised for the dogfish in order to overcome a popular prejudice.

There may have been some excuse for that suggestion, though it is debatable; but there can be none for calling canned rabbit "chicken a la king."

Just a Reminder

If You Have Not Obtained Your New Automobile License Plates, Act Now and Escape Annoyance.

Benjamin G. Eynon, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, announces that 1931 automobile license plates will be worthless after next Thursday. If you have not obtained your plates for 1932, do not count on an extension of the time in which this year's tags will continue valid.

Hundreds of arrests are made during the first few days of January every year because careless persons have postponed getting their license plates. Avoid the humiliation.

"My Burden Could Be Lessened!"

THE COST OF PROHIBITION

FEDERAL ENFORCEMENT	$ 40,000,000
LOSS IN FEDERAL REVENUE	$ 861,000,000
LOSS-STATE, CITY, COUNTY REVENUE	$ 50,000,000
MAKING A GRAND TOTAL OF	$ 951,000,000

Andrew Mellon has informed the taxpayers that $390,000,000 additional revenue must be raised for the current fiscal year and $920,000,000 additional revenue for the next year.

In explaining why this huge increase in taxation is necessary, the Administration forgets to call the taxpayers' attention to the fact that Prohibition, WHICH DOES NOT PROHIBIT, costs the nation a total of $951,000,000 in enforcement costs and loss of revenue.

Turned into other channels that $951,000,000 would lessen the tax load, but this the Administration cannot or WILL NOT see.

Meanwhile the burden-bearer must "grin and bear it."

My Daughter, in all thy ways with women, be subtile and tactful. But waste not thy finesse upon a MAN. For subtility is lost upon him.

Behold a woman perceiveth the meaning behind the smile and the hidden import behind the casual word. But a man seeth only that at which his eyes are looking.

Go to. Men say that they detest a loud and gaudy woman. But, the damsel with the henna-colored hair and the high-art complexion and the hearty laugh is never left to sit against the wall.

Lo, all men sing the praises of the sweet, "reserved" damsel; yet each man appeareth to think that she is reserved for someone else, and passeth her by for the OBVIOUS damsel.

The maid that lowereth her eyes may be admired for her modesty. But she that flasheth her glances and it not niggardly of her smiles is more often invited out to dinner, and lacketh not for dates.

Natural beauty is a gift from Heaven and simplicity is a virtue; but the cheek with the kissproof bloom and the lips that are redder than Nature ever painted them get all the kisses.

A subtile wit draweth smiles from the Intelligentsia; but the ready wisecrack getteth the laughter from the multitude and the hilarious jest calleth forth all the applause.

The modest toilette is admired by women and the imported label escapeth not their eyes; but the backless evening gown with the spangled straps causeth men to turn their heads and gaze.

Hints that are dropped upon a man's ears are as snowflakes upon hot sands; but she that saith "Gimme!" cannot be misunderstood.

To hide a sorrow beneath a smile may be brave and noble; but a woman's tears soften a man's heart and make him as wax in her hands. And a few judicious sobs are the strongest argument with a male jury.

A formal greeting may be modish; but an enthusiastic welcome gladdeneth a man's heart and causeth him to feel exceeding pleased with himself.

A veiled compliment passeth over a man's head and lukewarm praise abasheth him. But glowing flattery, laid on with a shovel, filleth him with self-admiration, and all that which spilleth over is THINE!

Verily, verily, in make-up and in manners, the demure and subtle woman getteth few breaks among men. But the OBVIOUS and showy damsel getteth whatsoever man she goeth after.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—In the run of a columnist's mail there are often heart throbs leaping out like trout to the incautious fly. No letter I have ever received touched me more than this one from a city in Ohio, reprinted herewith:

"My dear Mr. McIntyre: Since I have been curious enough to wonder about other places, other than my home town (not so long either, as I am but 20) I've seen New York and a little of Europe, Mexico and other far away countries through your daily column.

"I am going to try to tell you in a humble way and with great appreciation how much it has meant to me. I am a working girl, waiting on others. Despairing some days, exhuberantly happy others. I am the sort who washes silk hose and hangs them over the chair each night to dry.

"I know nothing of the gaiety of night life, the hubbub of fine motor cars and the lighted splash that floods from theaters and movies. My world is a gray little bedroom with holy cards hanging about the wall—held by adhesive tape—and decorations such as that.

"Yet I have been extraordinarily content. In a few days I leave for the novitiate and I'm joyous at quitting the world. It held little for me. There is no bitterness. I'm truly thankful. It is easier now when I must go. I used to have my dreams about New York.

"They were the Cinderella dreams of every girl's youth. I suppose—filmy dreams of grand ballrooms, brilliant assemblages at the opera, cafes lit by glittering chandeliers, bewigged footmen and perhaps somewhere a Prince Charming.

"So when I'm turning pages of my spiritual meditation, I shall sometimes think of a New Yorker who writes his column and often believes it is of little consequence. And also think of the joy you brought to me through those hurried lines. I shall say good-by heartily. God love you and bless you. MARY."

Tompkins Square is one of the model tenement areas a great city builds for those deserving life's gifts but not receiving them. In one tenement occupants are all elderly married couples who have incomes of not more than $50 a month. Yet out of that tenement in the recent drive for unemployment funds came a box containing $28.50, a sacrifice that caused many to go without meals at various times.

Peggy Joyce blossoms as a platinum blonde, featuring a long bob. Time rests lightly on the slim and silvery Peggy. At 40, or thereabouts, she remains lovely, piquant, a creature who glows at first glance and then somehow takes on the glacial dignity of black lace. In the dizzy whirl of reputed pursuits and surrenders, she has had intelligence to appear only in exclusive places. In several ways Miss Joyce is the most remarkable woman of her time. She lives at the Waldorf.

Numerologists claim the success of Peter Arno as an artist—they are mum on his ability as a theatrical titan—is based on the science of numbers. Arno's real name is Curtis Arnoux Peters. This science is a bit thick to this observer. It is oft repeated that Neysa McMein, born Nora Moran or something like that, would have been just another commercial artist save for the scientific selection of her pseudonym. My admiration for Miss McMein, however, is so great I believe she would have been just as great named Maggie O'Toole or Sophie Gogglewitz.

Indeed, if I cared to be a baddie, I could offer as Exhibit A a fairly successful interior decorator who all in a hurry went arty and changed his name to a scientifically selected one—suggesting roses and violets holding high revel with gay anemone. He has not had an order since. But, of course, it may be the slump. Or maybe as a decorator he is not so hot-cha-cha.

In formative days, there were two names I thought up right out of my own head for myself. If I went on the stage it was Maclyn McIntyre. If into journalism—or have you noticed it?—it would be Sylvester Dupeyster. But, when, after my schooling, I wound up night clerking in a jerk-water hotel I decided to postpone such fanciness and somehow never took it up again.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Actually took their Beautiful Child from their palatial mansion and forced her to live in a cheap apartment, where she had to do her own work! Can you imagine it! So naturally they took the Poor Abused Darling home.

Now does—or doesn't—an exhibition like that make you want to climb to the top of the highest building and screech—"OH, BALONEY?"

What's the big idea of this sort of thing happening in America where we are supposed to have equal suffrage?

DOES OR DOES NOT EQUAL SUFFRAGE IMPLY EQUAL SUFFERING?

And if it does, why should young husbands be expected to take all the hard breaks and young wives expect to be kept in glass cases . . . or snatched home by irate parents if they aren't?

How come this notion that the Missis must be treated in "the style to which she is accustomed?"

Why must a husband carry on where papa leaves off?

Why can't the Beautiful Bride do a little carrying on for herself? Must she have a cook just because mamma had one . . . and beach villas and trips to Europe just because that sort of thing runs in the family.

The old folks started from the scratch. This newly acquired husband of hers is also starting from the scratch. Why shouldn't Honey Blossom heave herself out of the taffeta ruffles and do a little scratching herself?

Time was when it was considered romantic for the banker's daughter to marry the grocer's son. And the funny papers were full of jokes about the young wife's efforts to make biscuits "like mother used to make." Now it's nix on the biscuits and if our hero can't provide star sapphires "like mother used to wear" he finds himself divorced on grounds of mental cruelty.

Not that there aren't, still, millions of grand little girls who are willing to take love "for better or worse" and face the breaks as they come. But the feeling is certainly growing, amongst our Bracket Incomes, that it practically amounts to assault n' battery to ask the new Missis to wash her own dishes.

And the only thing that makes me sicker than a wife like that is the type of husband who lets her get by with it.

Why should any hard working, serious young man wish a pain like that on the back of his neck—now I ask you? But they do. And then cry about it forever after.

Yet Lincoln died to free the slaves!

It can't be done, Abe.

You can give the average young male all the freedom and privileges on earth—including telephone numbers galore—and yet he'll go right out and mortgage his whole future to win some female knicknack that'll keep him in the chain gang for the rest of his life. Well, Ripley could certainly keep his column going for years 'n' years just by drawing husbands.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

It is unfortunate if you are not gifted with the ability to make a success such as gained by many men you know.

It is regrettable if you did not have opportunities to fit yourself for a more important place, but those conditions are past.

Do not be one of those persons who gives up hope of ever amounting to anything just because of early scholastic lack of training.

If you are of average intelligence you can get the equivalent of academic schooling from certain reading courses, or night schools.

You cannot get the fraternal feeling and the pleasure of association that most youth has with its own age in general, as in a school or college.

But the essentials are to be obtained if your ears are open and you take advantage of opportunities that are to be had if you are in earnest.

Instead of grumbling about past misfortunes, make the most of your opportunities to gain the rudiments at least in essential subjects.

Many of the most highly successful men had no better start than you.

But they did not become resigned to the fact that they are doomed to be only second or third raters. They resolved to overcome all handicaps.

It can't be done in a day, but steady purpose, a little at a time, gradually knowledge is gained and retained to be useful.

Europe Recommends We Pay Her Debts

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

In signing the moratorium Mr. Hoover found no fault with the action of Congress in adding the amendment specifically declaring that the ratification carried no remote implication favorable to the transfer of the debts of 14 nations to the backs of American taxpayers. He said:

"No part of the debt owing to us has been canceled or reduced."

Of course that is true; it would have been true had there been no amendment added; but with the amendment it is not only true that there has been no cancellation or reduction, but that there will be no reduction or cancellation.

Such being the determination of the Congress, expressing the pronounced determination of the American people, there can be no possible reason for the revival of the World War Debts Commission; for the sole purpose of that commission, appointed by the President, would be to urge the transfer of a large part or all the debts to the American people.

The whole controversy has been confusing. Mr. Hoover, in the same message, declares that no cancellation is contemplated and asks for the revival of the War Debts Commission to pass upon "capacity to pay." Since there is nothing for the commission to do but find that the debtors can pay or should be relieved, and since the American people know the debtors can pay what they borrowed independent of reparations, it is to be assumed that the plan for the revival is dead. But how unfortunate that just as Mr. Hoover was making his stout assertion that the transfer of the debts is not involved in his policy Mr. Mellon should be reporting to Congress that this very thing must be done.

They Can Afford To Pay

Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, one of the ablest members of the Senate and a Republican not hostile to the administration, says:

"All the people who owe us are amply capable of meeting their debts without reference to reparations."

It is perfectly dishonest to assert the contrary. We recently presented figures showing the amounts due us on the debts that we are told the debtor nations cannot pay on account of reparations; and also figures showing the many millions in excess these same nations have been able in a year to pay out on armament. Enough could have been taken from the amounts spent on increasing armaments to have met the payments on the debt without in any way endangering the defense of these countries.

And how grotesque the idea that France, for example—and we cite France because she is more prosperous than the United States—cannot pay her intallments on the debt when she has no deficit, no high taxes, little unemployment and is able to loan money to her allies.

'Advisory Experts' Report

But the "advisory experts" of the Bank of International Settlements at Basle follow closely with a report, which everyone expected, to the effect that there must be a readjustment of the reparations—and the debts.

This means, of course, that the American people are to be asked to assume all the debts of other nations that are wiped out or reduced. Nations that can spend two billions in a year on armament cannot possibly pay even a fraction of those amounts on the debts they owe the United States.

We do not believe anything of the sort.

American People Are Not to Pay

From Walter W. Stewart, the American delegate at Basle, we have an interpretation of the recommendations there made. He tells us that "in a broad way" these were contained in the communique issued last October by President Hoover and M. Laval, the French Premier, after their secret conversations in Washington. At that time we predicted, as a result of that communique, that this meeting at Basle would make this kind of recommendation, and expressed the opinion at the time that both Mr. Hoover and M. Laval had no doubt about it.

However, the amendment on the moratorium passed by Congress means that, whatever these experts at Basle may recommend, the American people are not going to pay the debts of Europe. If these debtor nations are determined to default, that is their business.

American Attacks On America

Meanwhile, as a result of the American view, we are beginning to read American attacks on America; for we have men so broad and international in their views that they have little regard for American interests. We are hearing now about a few states that repudiated debts many years ago; but there has been no repudiation of honest debts by the United States.

In making out a case against the American people, American writers refer to the repudiation of some of the debts contracted by the Carpetbag governments, conceived in corruption, backed by federal bayonets, during the black days of reconstruction. Legislatures under military tyranny were composed almost entirely of newly emancipated freedmen who could not read or write and common criminals, mostly carpetbaggers. Stealing was all these men did. I have told the almost incredible story in "The Tragic Era." I knew it was bad before I began; I was horrified to find how savage it was.

One of the methods of stealing was for these common crooks, who in most cases were not bona fide residents of the States and paid no taxes, to appropriate vast sums for railroad building; to sell bonds to get the money; to pocket the money and build no roads. The delectable Littlepage was most active in several States in the South. Never has America been so close to savagery as it was in those days and in those places; neither life nor property was safe, and drunken and debauched legislators tyrannized over the people and under the guise of law levied confiscatory taxes on a prostrate people, and, through criminal bond issues, got the money they stole.

Everyone knew about it; the bankers who sold the bonds knew it, and did not care, because they were getting their rake-off. Then it was when bonds were offered that the Chamber of Commerce and the taxpayers of South Carolina formally served notice on the world that there was crime in the transaction and that the bonds would be repudiated. Bond buyers bought with a full knowledge of the crime and, of course, they lost their money.

The Height of Impudence

Comparing our loans to Europe with these transactions is the height of impudence. One scene: The drunken carbethae Gov. Scott, of South Carolina, was brought to New York City to sign hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of fraudulent convertible bonds for the ringsters. Even he was reluctant. But he liked wine and women; so they got him in a back room at the St. James Hotel, with an abundance of wine and whisky and the charmine burlesque actress, Pauline Markham, who consented to seduce him for a percentage of the steal.

So the drunken carpetbagger, reeking whisky, signed and ...led while the delightful Pauline counted and piled the bonds. These were repudiated by the people, of course. To compare the loans to Europe with the "debts" of a helpless people in the hands of notorious criminals is absurd.

EAST BOROUGHS DISTRICT NEWS

BOROUGHS ENLIST IN WAR ON HIGH UTILITY RATES

WATER CHARGES IN HOMEWOOD UNDER FIRE

Drive Opens in Wilkinsburg, Verona, Oakmont; Electric Bills Fought in Braddock

The fight against high utility rates is growing throughout the East district.

Wilkinsburg, Verona, Oakmont and Mifflin Township, will send delegates to a meeting in Oakmont tonight prior to the meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association at Tarentum, January 20.

Braddock and the Homewood-Brushton Board of Trade are making rate fights without the aid of the association.

HOMEWOOD RATES SCORED

A committee of the Homewood-Brushton Board of Trade is now working to obtain lower water rates in that district. D. H. McClelland, president of the organization and a member of the committee, believes that rates are in excess of those in other parts of the city. He said:

"The rates in Homewood and Brushton, particularly in Brushton, are higher, we believe, than those in other parts of the city. These districts are just as much a part of the city as any other and we believe our rates should be the same. We have a committee investigating this and we will decide what steps to take when it delivers its report at the next meeting on January 5."

BRADDOCK PROTEST

Other members of the committee are Adam Krueger, chairman; A. G. Gosser, Nathan Snyder, C. Dale Blair and F. E. Shaughnessy.

Braddock Council believes that its electric rates should be lowered. The Council has sent a request to the Duquesne Light Company and is expecting a reply by tomorrow. Council decided, at a recent meeting, to follow the three-year contract it has with the company until action is taken on its request. Plans concerning the contract will be made later.

Wilkinsburg started a fight for reduction of gas, electric, telephone and water rates about the same time the Fair Rate Association was formed. Its own efforts met with defeat and it joined the association. Councilman John H. Rhodes, one of the Wilkinsburg representatives at the association's last meeting, thinks that the public should be educated about the association's work.

EDUCATION URGED

He said:

"We will a meeting shortly after Christmas in order to make plans for letting people know why we want the rate reduction and what the associations is trying to do. A. W. Johnson and John H. Bell are the other councilmen working with me."

Verona and Oakmont also had representatives at the last meeting of the association in Tarentum on December 16. Nineteen townships, boroughs and cities were represented and it is believed that many more will attend the next one.

The whole state of Pennsylvania has taken up the fight and it is estimated that 300 communities in Western and Central Pennsylvania are now in the lower utility rate movement.

Albert B. Davidson, of Tarentum, was elected president at the last meeting. Pittsburgh will be represented at the January 20 meeting.

HOLIDAY FETES IN CHURCHES, SCHOOLS

Serenades, Cantatas, Plays And Gift Parties Spread Yuletide Cheer in District

Schools, churches and clubs in East communities ushered in the holidays with varied and colorful Christmas programs which included choral serenades, cantatas, plays and gift parties.

Special Christmas programs were given last week in all the public schools of Homestead. Rooms of the First Ward School were decorated in holiday colors for the entertainment which preceded the Christmas vacations.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PROGRAM

Mt. Zion Lutheran Church, 430 South Evaline street, presented its Christmas entertainment Wednesday night under the direction of William J. Studt, superintendent of the Sunday school department. The Rev. David R. Maxwell, pastor, led in a devotional service.

Members of the East Liberty Lions Club were hosts to children of the district at a Christmas program Wednesday night at Kuhn's.

The choir of St. Stephen's Lutheran Church, Brushton and Hamilton avenues, sang "The Messiah," by Handel, at a special Sunday evening service.

MEDIEVAL CHORISTERS

A midnight mass was celebrated in Sacred Heart Church Christmas Eve. Choristers in medieval costumes sang Christmas carols. The same musical program was repeated at the Christmas services at the 11 o'clock mass Christmas Day.

The annual Christmas entertainment of the Fourth United Presbyterian Church was held Wednesday evening. The program included a play by the members of the Junior department of the Sunday School.

Children of the open air school of the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh, Bedford avenue and Wandless street, were guests Tuesday afternoon at a Christmas party given by the Ogontz Society.

PATIENTS SERENADED

A Christmas play was given Wednesday night at the Kingsley House, Larimer avenue and Auburn street, as part of the annual parents' party.

Residents of the United Presbyterian Home for the Aged and patients of the Columbia Hospital, Wilkinsburg, were serenaded Tuesday night by Christmas carol singers from the Central Branch of the Y. W. C. A.

SQUIRREL HILL, WILKINSBURG MAKE PLEAS

Routing of Forbes St. Cars On Murray Ave. Opposed; Ardmore Express Urged

The Pittsburgh Railways Company has received two requests from the East district for changes in street car schedules.

The Squirrel Hill Board of Trade sent Joseph B. Donley, director of public relations, a letter requesting that street cars returning downtown in the early morning use Forbes street instead of Murray avenue. Wilkinsburg Council has made a request that an express service run over Ardmore boulevard between Wilkinsburg and East Pittsburgh.

The request that street cars return to town by way of Forbes street was made by the Squirrel Hill board after Lieut. Phillip Kumpf had complained at the last meeting that the cars changed their routes in the early morning to Murray avenue. This is an inconvenience to those who wait on Forbes street.

Wilkinsburg Council sent its request to the railways company when Forest Hills and other municipalities on Ardmore boulevard requested better service and asked Wilkinsburg for co-operation.

John H. Rhodes, president of Council, thinks that a faster service should be run between these two points. He said:

"Several months ago Route 63 was discontinued by the Pittsburgh Railways Company. This was the only fast service between Wilkinsburg and East Pittsburgh on Ardmore boulevard. The residents of Forest Hills and other places along Ardmore boulevard want a faster route. They asked us to cooperate with them and we have made an appeal hoping we will obtain results."

Mr. Donley is doubtful that such a service will be added. He said:

"When the Trafford Express was running over Ardmore boulevard very few persons took advantage of the service. The company discontinued it because it was a financial loss and its small use did not warrent its continuance. I don't think that they will be able to run another express line of the route."

BRIDGE HEARING SET BY U. S.

The next move in securing the construction of the proposed Homestead High Level Bridge will be taken January 19 when United States Army engineers stationed at Washington will hold a public hearing in the Homestead Municipal Building. Comments will be received at this meeting from residents of the district who would be affected by the bridge.

County engineers are continuing work on their plans for the bridge which would take the place of the old bridge over the Monongahela River.

Special Engineer John M. Rice, representing Homestead in all discussions concerning the new bridge, is now studying plans submitted by the county to the Borough Council at a special meeting two weeks ago.

DE ROSA FETES CHILDREN

Eighteen Sections to Start Campaign for Western Penna. Crown Next Week

By JULIUS LEVIN

After several weeks of pre season games which brought them into action against some of the strongest opposition in the district, basketball teams representing the various high schools in Western Pennsylvania are on edge for the opening of the twenty-first annual W. P. I. A. L. race next Tuesday afternoon and evening.

The schools of Western Pennsylvania have been divided into 18 sections, the majority of them composed of six or more teams. The winners in each section earn the right to compete in the annual W. P. I. A. L. playoffs to be staged at the Pitt Stadium early in March, the survivor in this competition competing for the state championship.

In the 19 years of competition Homestead High School, coached by Bill Campbell, is the only school in this section to win the W. P. I. A. L. title three times. Homestead first came through to win the title in 1923. The Millstown quintet repeated in 1924 and won its third championship in 1929.

Wilkinsburg won the title twice, winning the first year of the league's existence in 1913 and again in 1922. Butler also was a winner on two occasions, taking the title in 1914 and 1915. South High is another that holds two W. P. I. A. L. trophies, winning the crown in 1916 and 1918. Uniontown, coached by Pop Everhart, won the title twice, winning in 1925 and repeating in 1926, while Monessen, coached by Preston Ditty, obtained the laurels in 1918.

Schools which won the title once and the years in which they copped the crown follow:

300 CHILDREN AWAIT HOMES

In order to aid 300 children waiting for someone to provide them with homes, the Children's Home Society of Pennsylvania, 467 South Aiken avenue, is appealing for funds to carry on its work.

At present more than 30 children are cared for by the society by means of voluntary contributions, pending their adoption by private families.

Because of lack of funds, there are now 300 homeless children on the waiting list, according to the Rev. C. T. Murdock and the Rev. E. E. Harter, heads of the institution.

The home was founded 35 years ago. Since that time nearly 5,000 children have been placed in homes.

The Next WAR —and what will happen!

"Poison Gas-Drills," Like This One in a Park in Bremen, Germany, Are Being Practiced in France and Russia, Too, to Instruct Helpless Women and Children What to Do During Deadly Gas Attacks

THE next war will probably end with a surplus of young men who will come home from the battlefields to find a sad scarcity of girls to marry—just the reverse of wars in the past.

The governments of Europe know that the next war will be devoted mostly to efforts toward exterminating city populations—women, children, babies and all—by deadly gases, as vermin are exterminated today. And thus "gas-drills" are now being held in Germany, France and Russia to instruct innocent noncombatants what to do when deadly gas attacks are made.

Every European nation is busy searching for the most effective and deadly poison gases and the most efficient devices for spraying them over hostile armies and the cities and countryside of the enemy.

Bombing squadrons during the next war will not waste their poison on the scattered and alert soldiery in the open country because concentration on a large city will offer an opportunity to kill thousands or even millions.

You can probably understand clearly how extensively gases will be used during the next war when you realize how many different gases are available for use when nations go to war again. You'll be surprised to learn that each gas is intended for a particular purpose. Exactly what these gases are expected to do is explained—next Sunday—in an unusual and informative article in The American Weekly. Read it if you want to know what will happen the next time two or more first-class powers come to grips!
